The official local forecast for to-day is cooler, cloudy, with probably flurries of snow. For Friday, warmer, fair.

Observer Hagen says: "Cooler, clear weather prevails throughout the country excepting the lower lake regions, where snow is falling, and in the extreme northwest, where a storm is generating. To-night will be the last of our cold snap; the temperature will continue rising until about Sunday, when it will rain. The lowest temperature in the United States to-day is zero in northern Maine; the highest is 58 degrees in Florida. The highest temperature in Toledo yesterday was 37 degrees; the coldest this morning was 19 degrees."

Forecast for western New York—Occasional light snows; northerly winds; slight rise in temperature; warmer Friday.

For Ohio and Indiana—Fair, except local snows at lake stations; northerly winds, followed by warmer; fair Friday.

For Illinois and Wisconsin—Generally fair; winds shifting to southeasterly; warmer on Friday.

Western Commercial Congress Placed on Record.

Senator Stewart's Bill Endorsed and the Congressional Delegation Asked to Work for It.

Aspen, Col., Dec. 17.—Yesterday's session of the Western Commercial congress was called to order with a full attendance and undiminished interest. The report of the committee on credentials showed an accredited representation of over 150.

The following resolution was offered by G. W. Thatcher, of Pitkin:

"Resolved, That the Western Commercial congress is unalterably in favor of the principles of bi-metalism as approved by Jefferson and Hamilton and enacted into law by congress in 1793 and accepted by the country for all public and private business for the first 80 years of our country's history. That we believe that gold and silver, not one to the exclusion of the other, are the money metals of the constitution; that we are opposed to a law that treats silver as a commodity; that we believe gold and silver should have by the law, equal rights, uses, and money powers, and to that end we demand of the United States congress the passage of a law by which silver shall be coined free in all mints equally with gold and to have with it free and unrestricted money power; that the coinage be in the ratio of 16 to 1, and when the coinage is represented by treasury notes, each note shall represent 412 1-2 grains of standard silver or 258.10 grains of gold.

"Resolved, That our senators and representatives in congress assembled be requested to use their utmost endeavors to procure the passage of the bill entitled, "free coinage," introduced by Senator Stewart, of Nevada."

The resolution was passed without a dissenting vote. A motion making public lands and parks a special order for the session was carried. Mines and mining industry and smelters on the western slope was next, and B. Clark Wheeler, of Pitkin, moved the appointment of a special committee of five to draft a proper resolution. In support of his motion he made an earnest appeal to delegates to endeavor to show railroad men that it would be, as he confidently believed, to their interest to make such rates on ore, flux, and bullion that a smelter can exist on this side of the range. He advocated Grand Junction as a convenient location for a common point in the present system of making railroad rates.

WHAT THEY THINK.

Ohio Congressmen Interviewed by a Bee

As to Their Standing on Issues of the Day.

More Goods Must Be Placed on the Free List

So That the Masses May Get the Benefit.

The Silver Question Is One on Which There Is a Vast Difference of Opinion—Interesting Talk From the Nation's Capital.

Washington, Dec. 17.—(Special)—The present house has three great questions to deal with, and the manner in which they are handled means considerable for the party which is in power in that body. By making a false step or not stepping when a step is required may so embarrass the party as to make the election of a president more difficult. Care and knowledge and foresight are demanded and certainly needed to guide the party safely between the jagged rocks of treacherous legislation.

The tariff must needs be handled with great care.

Then there are appropriations. The democrats take hold of the government, at least that portion raising and appropriating the revenues of the country, with an appropriation of one billion dollars, a gigantic pension list, public improvements begun and without funds sufficient to complete them.

The curtailing of this enormous sum means that some of these improvements are bound to suffer, unless great care is taken to reduce in the proper places.

Judge Holman will undoubtedly be made chairman of the appropriation committee, and the custom begun in the Forty-ninth congress of distributing the appropriation bills to the various committees having charge of the different branches of the government, will be stopped.

All bills will originate with the committee on appropriations. Judge Holman's well-known ability for reducing the expenditures of the government will have full sway, and no mistake will be made. The members of the Ohio delegation are almost a unit on the tariff and appropriations, and differ materially when it comes to the silver question.

The Bee correspondent asked them what they would consider good politics and principles this session regarding the handling of the tariff question, the silver question and the question of appropriations.

Mr. Haynes.

Congressman Haynes said that there was but one opinion regarding the tariff. That is one opinion based on a careful review of the situation—the fact of a republican senate and president. That was to attack the McKinley bill by separate measures aimed at reducing the taxation or relieving altogether those articles used by the masses.

Regarding the silver question, he is in favor of giving the present bill a fair trial. It would be poor policy to pass a measure which would endanger the parity of gold and silver, continually changing the financial and revenue systems of the country and endanger its financial and commercial interests. Appropriations should be liberal for improvements of the waterways of the country, the navy and coast defenses and the payment of pensions. Economy should be practiced in the maintenance of government institutions.

Mr. Outhwaite.

Mr. Outhwaite of Columbus said he did not think it would be advisable for the democracy to frame and endeavor to pass a tariff law. It would be better policy, he said, to introduce and pass separate bills tending to relieve the people from the burdensome taxes of specific articles. These measures would stand some chance of passing the senate, while a general tariff bill would not.

He did not think the people demanded a change of the silver situation. It would be better to take steps to have the civilized powers adopt a bi-metallic basis before we take any radical steps.

In the matter of appropriation he thought the house should be liberal, but not extravagant.

Mr. Hare.

Judge D. D. Hare of Upper Sandusky was of the opinion that separate tariff bills aiming at particular articles would be better than a general bill. By a general bill the party would change the line of attack from the McKinley bill to the measure introduced, which could not pass the senate. The time was not ripe for an unlimited coinage of silver, and the appropriations should be cut, but not so low as to injure the public service.

Mr. Layton.

F. C. Layton was for the same tariff campaign, but on the question of silver believed in free coinage, and it could not be done too quickly. He favored cutting down the appropriations this year, maintaining the pension rolls, but cut on everything else.

Mr. Gantz.

Congressman Gantz was of the same tariff idea and believed that some legislation should be made regarding the silver question. He was in favor of a radical cut in appropriations.

Mr. Donovan.

Congressman D. D. Donovan thought the proper way of attacking the tariff was by a flank movement and small detachments. Not by a general bill. The silver question should be made a question of greater importance than the tariff, and it could easily be made a greater one. He believed in close appropriations.

Mr. Owens.

Congressman Owens said he was a democrat with all that that implied. He was in favor of a bi-metallic basis for our currency and fair appropriations.

Mr. Pierson.

Congressman Pierson said he was in favor of separate measures on the tariff question, in view of the fact that our friends, the enemy, had possession of the senate wing. These bills should be to reduce the tariff, or put on the free list, raw materials and necessaries.

There was no immediate necessity of forcing the question of silver, but when it did come up he would be found ready. He was not in favor of over-liberality in appropriations.

Mr. Houk.

Congressman Houk was of the same tariff idea and thought that the question of money and the circulating medium was one of those that would sooner or later settle themselves; that it worked out its own solution. Appropriations should be liberal, but not extravagant.

Mr. Dungan.

Congressman Dungan said he believed the sentiment of the house should be made known to the country, and that while a general tariff bill was being formulated, separate measures should be introduced. That the silver question should be forced and that the party should not be bound down to one idea. He didn't believe in the building of another public building until the public debt was under control.

Mr. Warwick.

Congressman Warwick thought the questions a little previous. That the best time to discuss them was when they confronted us. On the tariff, however, he thought the better plan would be to attack the most objectionable features of the McKinley bill by special measures, as a general bill at this time would be fruitless. And a general discussion upon a fruitless measure would be a waste of valuable time. The silver question was an important one, on a par with the tariff, but he did not think it good policy to force it to the front at the present time.

On appropriations he did not believe in being niggardly nor extravagant.

Mr. Harter.

Congressman Harter said he thought the free list should be largely increased and many articles allowed to remain on the dutiable list should have the rate decreased, aiming in all these changes to relieve the people as much as possible without diminishing the revenues of the treasury, as all the money we can get will be needed to meet the engagements of the government already made.

We should keep down the expenses through the appropriation committee to the closest limits proper efficiency will permit.

That no step should be made in the direction of opening the mints to the free coinage of silver. The injustice of giving to the holder of 74 and 75 cents' worth of silver bullion 100 cents' worth of his neighbor's property is now so generally recognized that such a measure would wreck the party in the coming presidential election. Free and unlimited coinage is a question which may well go over for consideration during the second session, by which time it is likely to die a natural death just as all kindred ones have done in the past.

MADE ROOM FOR HILL.

Democrats Look Out for an Honored Member.

Places Made for Him on Important Committees.

Full List of the Senatorial Committees Are Presented in the Upper House of Congress To-Day.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The democratic senators held a caucus this morning before the meeting of the senate for the purpose of taking action on the assignments of democratic senators to committees made by the caucus committee of the minority.

The caucus was a harmonious one, but there was much talk over the list submitted.

The action of the caucus in not assigning Senators-elect Hill of New York and Vance of North Carolina was approved. These gentlemen have not been sworn in as senators and it was decided that to assign them to committees would not be exactly in accordance with law, that it would set a bad precedent and that it would cause considerable trouble.

In the caucus committee Senator Gorman, its chairman, had held out for leaving a vacancy in each of the committees to which Messrs. Hill and Vance would be assigned.

He met with considerable opposition and it was finally decided that certain senators should be placed on certain committees with the understanding that they would relinquish these assignments to make way for the two absentees when they were sworn in. The list submitted to-day is so arranged.

The committees to which it was decided to assign Mr. Hill are Interstate Commerce, Immigration, Territories, and Relations with Canada.

Messrs. Gorman and Cockrell will take his place on these committees until he is sworn in.

Senator Ransom will hold the places assigned Senator Vance until the latter returns to Washington.

PRESIDENT OF SWITZERLAND.

A Zurich Man Succeeds Dr. Welti.

Berne, Dec. 17.—W. Hauser was to-day elected president of the national council of the federal assembly of Switzerland, and, therefore, president of the Swiss confederation.

Mr. Hauser was formerly chief of the military department and comes from Zurich.

President Hauser succeeds President Welti, who resigned recently on account of disappointment at the failure of the plan for the sale of the Central railway to a German syndicate.

SHE ASKS PROTECTION.

New York, Dec. 17.—Mrs. James G. Blaine, jr., has asked Inspector Byrnes to protect her from the annoyance of private detectives who follow her everywhere. One of these is a woman who obtains a room near Mrs. Blaine's in the New York hotel for the purpose of watching her movements.

A CAREER OF CRIME.

Mruderer Fitzgerald Tells of His Life.

A Thief From the Time He Was Able to do Anything.

Reared in Sin He Was Taught That Vice Was Laudable and That Virtues Did Not Exist in Anybody.

Columbus, Dec. 17.—(Special)—Before the Bee goes to press, unless something unforseen happens, Murderer Fitzgerald will have paid the penalty on the gallows for killing Policeman Freed, of Youngstown. As the perpetrator of a foul crime, no sympathy can be felt for Fitzgerald, but as a friendless and unheeded outcast who was reared in sin and whose young and plastic mind was molded in vice, and who is, to some extent, the creature of dreadful circumstances, some pity is beginning to be felt.

And why not? The shadow of death which is already upon him may well mellow the fitful glare of passion and resentment for the wicked murder he committed.

The separation of the spirit from the body, which the law prescribes as the atonement, will soon have taken place, and the murderer, as his victim, will be but a memory. The punishment will have balanced the crime, the scales of justice will resume their equilibrium, and nothing will remain but to ponder and take lesson.

The career of Fitzgerald invites reflection. He told his story to Warden Dyer the other day and it made a deep impression upon that gentleman.

He told the warden that the very first recollection he had was of selling papers in New York city when but 4 years old. Parents he had never known. He was raised among criminals who directed his ambition toward evil.

His first teaching was to be an expert thief, and he was given to understand in earliest childhood that crime was laudable. Virtue and goodness were scoffed at; in a Christian land he was raised worse than a heathen.

Fitzgerald tells Warden Dyer that he has been a thief from his earliest recollection and has never earned an honest dollar in his life.

The influence of a home he never experienced; the guidance of a parent he never had. Pure women and honorable men he was taught to believe did not exist—that all who professed to be such were hypocrites, no better than others who made no claims to respectability.

In an atmosphere of crime he grew up to be a criminal.

He committed various grades of offenses was occasionally detected and occasionally convicted and punished. But he did not know how to be an honest man and he continued to be a thief, his repeated punishments sharpening his wits and prompting him to greater skill as a crook.

Then came the murder of a policeman who was pursuing him, and in a few hours his life will close in disgrace.

Warden Dyer has been surprised to find his prisoner quite familiar with the Bible and remarked upon it one day. He was told that Fitzgerald had once stolen, among other things, a Bible which he read out of curiosity. He became interested in it and read it through, and can quote from it freely.

It is forbidden to express sympathy for a murderer, so none will be vouchsafed for Fitzgerald. But is is a sad reflection that he was permitted to be enrolled in a school of vice wherein nothing but sin was taught, and a little pity may be felt for one who is to reap the harvest of death from seeds that were sown by others.

FRAUDS IN NATURALIZATION

Senator Chandler in the Role of a Detective.

He Has Obtained Much Valuable Information Which He Will Submit to the Senate.

New York, Dec. 17.—The World this morning says that for three days in October last a small, nervous man might have been observed in and out of Judge McAdam's court room in the superior court chambers.

He was very plainly, almost shabbily dressed, and a well-worn felt hat was pulled down over his head, concealing the thin, sharp features of its owner.

He paid close attention to the naturalization of voters which was going on, but little heed was paid to him by the court or its attendants, they being under the impression that he was a supervisor in the employ of John I. Davenport, and looked upon him as a necessary evil.

He was, however, none other than a distinguished senator of the United States, and his name is Wm. E. Chandler. Charges of fraud in the naturalization of voters in this city have been frequent in the past, but the republican leaders here seemed unable to prevent it, though they tried many plans.

It remained for Senator Chandler to execute the boldest and most original plan. In the guise of a supervisor's employe he made a tour of the courts and claims he was successful in his object beyond his hopes.

He has drawn up the result of his observations and will submit it to the senate at an early day.

DOWN THE HOME STRETCH.

Sherman's Friends Confident of Winning.

Chairman Hahn Says He Will Have Sixty Votes on the First Ballot.

Columbus, Dec. 17.—(Special)—The battle rages. It becomes fiercer. The forces of Sherman and Foraker are getting closer together, and before long one side or the other will have to take to the woods.

It is notable that the Sherman people are not doing a great deal of talking. They jog along, picking up a vote here and there and saying nothing about it. They claim but one thing, and that is that Mr. Sherman is most certainly going to be re-elected, with that they rest.

On the other hand, the Foraker managers make a loud noise. Every man who can be induced to vote for the ex-governor is exploited and the organs grind out a hilarious tune.

It is tipped off, to borrow a bit of slang, that some more interviews from recent converts are to be published within a day or two, with a great ado to the end that an impression be made.

Col. Hahn, who is in charge of the Sherman headquarters at the Neil House, said this morning that he felt sure of fifty-nine votes for Mr. Sherman and believed that he would get sixty on the first ballot.

"We are hearing from all sections of the state," said the colonel, "and we hear that the people are moving in this matter. They are insisting that their representatives voice the wish of the majority by voting for Sherman, and members who at first were undecided have determined to respect the wishes of their constituents. I am safe in saying that not for many years have so many first-class men been elected to the legislature, and they are men who are liberal enough to hear from all sides. If the people were not for Sherman, there would be no chance of Mr. Sherman being elected. It is the known desire of the masses that Sherman be returned that makes us feel sure that those who have given assurances of support will remain firm."

Of course, this does not refer to Hamilton county, where the great Sherman sentiment is unrepresented.

HILL'S CREDENTIALS.

They Have Been Filed in the Senate Without a Word of Protest.

Washington, Dec. 17.—In the senate Senator Hill's credentials were submitted by Mr. Manderson, president pro tem, and filed without a word of comment.

TO BE AIRED IN COURT.

The Field Skeleton to be Taken From the Closet.

A Sensation May Be Expected at the Hearing.

Cyrus W. Field Continues to Sink and His Physicians Have No Hope That He Will Ever Recover.

New York, Dec. 17.—Judge Dykeman, of Westchester county, has issued an order directing the warden of the New York county jail to produce his prisoner, Edward M. Field, in the court at White Plains Saturday morning.

The warden is in a quandary as to his course of action. If he disobeys the order he may be committed for contempt, and if he surrenders his prisoner he and his bondsmen are likely to be sued by Robert E. Dietz, of Brooklyn, who has caused Mr. Field to be locked up on a charge of stealing $150,000.

Sensational developments are promised in the case on Saturday when the family skeleton will be revealed at the court in White Plains. On that day the proceedings will be begun by the commission on lunacy to determine the mental condition of Edward M. Field.

Up to a late hour last night there was no change in the condition of Cyrus W. Field. He is slowly sinking, and the physicians have no hope of his recovery.

IMPORTANT LEGAL DECISION

A Divorce Can Be Set Aside in the Same Term.

Judge Duncan, of Columbus, Startles the Legal Fraternity by a Decision Rendered Yesterday.

Columbus, O., Dec. 17.—Judge Duncan, of the common pleas court, has rendered a decision which is without precedent in this state, and will attract widespread interest in legal circles.

He decided that he could set aside a decree of divorce at any time within the same term it is granted in his court.

The question arose in the case of Charles Kredel against Clara Kredel, where the charge is marital infidelity. The decree was granted by default, both the defendant and her attorney failing to appear on the day set for trial.

Mrs. Kredel subsequently came into court and filed a motion to set aside the decree, claiming that she was not properly notified of the date of the hearing.

A search of the supreme court decisions developed a case passed on in 1859, but none since that time. That case, however, differed from the Kredel case in that the application for setting aside the decree was made at the term following the one in which the decree had been made, while in this case the application was made after the decree. The supreme court refused the application.

Judge Duncan held that had the application been made in the same term in which the case was first decided, the supreme court would have set aside the decree. He said that he therefore felt justified in deciding that the decree of divorce in the Kredel case was void.

LYNCHED THE WRONG MAN.

A Death Bed Confession Causes a Sensation.

An Ex-Sheriff of Monroe County Tells the True Story of a Midnight Murder for Which Another Man Died.

Ottumwa, Ia., Dec. 17.—Ten years ago, near Blakesburg, in the southern part of this county, Chris McAllister, a rich young farmer, was called out of his residence one night, and the next morning was found dead in his yard with his skull crushed in.

He had taken from the bank a large sum of money that day, and the murder was supposed to have been committed for the purpose of robbery.

The highwaymen were not successful in their purpose, but were frightened away before they could search the house.

The crime was fastened upon a Swede named Pleas Anderson, who, after a long sensational trial, was acquitted. An indignant mob, however, subsequently took Anderson to the scene of the murder and lynched him.

At that time Dan Miller, sheriff of Monroe county, and afterwards a defaulter and bank wrecker, for which he served a term in the penitentiary, and his brother, Sam, were by some suspected of knowing much about the murder.

The sensational story comes from Blakesburg to-day, that Sam, a few weeks ago on his death bed, wished to make a confession, but was deterred by his wife. Now, Dan, on his death bed in Texas, has sent for the wife of McAllister and confessed to the brutal crime.

ALARMING RUMORS.

Chilians Bound to Have Their Refugees.

Rumors That the American Legation Will Be Set on Fire to Give the Mob a Chance to Sack It.

New York, Dec. 17.—A special cable dispatch to the World from Valparaiso says there is certain knowledge as to the existence of a plot either to set fire to the United States legation or the adjoining house, in order to furnish a pretext for a mob to enter and sack the legation and thus secure the refugees.

SOLD IN THE MARKET.

Slave Shambles in a Thriving City.

Chinamen Buy Women As They Would Tea.

Young Girls Sold to Fiends Who Make Them Prisoners and Force Them to Shame—A Most Terrible Discovery Made.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 17.—The authorities of Victoria have discovered in that city regular slave shambles, where the Chinamen buy women as they would buy tea.

An investigation has just revealed the careers of six Chinese girls who arrived by the Empress of China about the middle of October.

These girls, ranging in age from 11 to 14 years, were in charge of two old women, Chin Ah Die and Chin Su.

Upon the arrival of the steamer they disposed of the two oldest for $1,400 and $1,500 respectively; but they bound the four younger ones over to Lin You, a famous procuress, with instructions to wait for a better market.

On Monday last she sold them for $1,410, $1,610, $885 and $770 respectively, cash being paid down.

This sale was made with the assistance of Moy Chung and he received a good commission for his part in the transaction. Moy Chung rules the Chinese residents of Victoria with a rod of iron.

The powers vested in him by the chiefs of the Highbider society in Hong Kong make him feared by every Chinaman, and it is alleged that he is at the bottom of nearly every disturbance.

Lin You, when frightened by the questions put to her, finally confessed everything regarding the sale, and added that the Empress of India on her next trip would bring more girls for the same purpose.

Lin You also stated that three out of the four girls sold on Monday had up to that time led perfectly pure lives. Two of them went to Lo Leet, one to Wah Quong Fook, and one to Chung Wan.

On Friday night Lo Leet, a low repulsive looking man, besotted with opium smoking, but dressed in a manner that at once proclaimed him wealthy, opened his doors to the men who were searching for the girls and regretted his carelessness the moment afterward.

In the first room, huddled in a native bed, were the two young girls, but pale with eyes like those of hunted animals. When questioned, they told their tale in a plain, straight-forward manner.

Briefly, they were slaves, living in dread of their owner, and forced to prostitution, this in the principal street in Victoria, 200 yards from the city hall.

Wah Quong Fook, who bought a child of 13, is well known even beyond Chinatown. He is a gambler and crook and as sharp as a needle. His room is reached by ascending a steep, narrow flight of stairs, pitch dark both day and night.

The door was opened to admit a "friend" and closed with the searchers inside. The child, loaded down with the weight of costly silks and enormous ornaments, stood in the bed room pale and sickly looking. She told her tale after a great deal of kind coaxing. It was what was expected—cruel treatment, compulsory shame, and all the criminality of this character.

MICHIGAN SENSATION.

The Secretary of State Tenders His Resignation.

Charges of Malfeasance in Office Against Mr. Soper, Which He Makes No Attempt to Deny.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 17.—Daniel E. Soper, secretary of state, at 11 o'clock last night tendered his resignation to Gov. Winans. Charges had been preferred with the governor, accusing Mr. Soper with malfeasance in office, and as Mr. Soper did not deny the charges Gov. Winans asked for his resignation.

The charges upon which Secretary of State Soper's resignation was demanded were made by Mayor Johnson, of this city. They are that the secretary sold 700 copies of the legislative manual, and converted the money to his own use; sold and converted the value of 50 sets of the compiled laws; ordered two carloads of paper under a contract to expire in January, whereas if the purchase, which was unnecessary, had not been made, $500 would have been saved to the state; that he has received a money consideration for making supply contracts; and that he demanded $500 of his deputy's salary as a consideration for keeping him in office.

A CRISIS IN CHILI.

A Belief That Affairs Are Growing Desperate.

Special Instructions Issued to the Navy Department Not to Publish the Movement of Vessels.

New York, Dec. 17.—A special to the Herald from Washington says there is a feeling there that Chilian affairs are approaching a crisis. The reply of the Chilian government to the demand of the United States for an apology and reparation is expected in a few days.

An order, full of import, was issued at the navy department yesterday.

It is to the effect that hereafter the movements of naval vessels shall not be given out by the department. This is regarded as not only highly significant, but as a proof that the naval authorities fully expect a serious outcome of the Chilian affair.

AND THE BAND STILL PLAYS

The Waldorf-Bolles Controversy Grows Interesting.

Col. Joseph C. Bonner Corroborates Mr. Waldorf's Assertions—Bolles Wanted to go to the Senate.

The Waldorf-Bolles controversy grows more interesting as the war of words proceeds. Mr. Bolles telegraphed from Columbus yesterday an emphatic denial of the allegations made in yesterday's Bee by Mr. Waldorf. To-day Col J. C. Bonner, to whom Mr. Waldorf referred as the gentleman capable of corroborating his (Waldorf's) assertions, makes the following interesting and self-explanatory statement:

"The fact is, Mr. Bolles wanted to be a candidate for senator. I wanted him to succeed, and was willing to aid him all I could. He and I had several talks about his candidacy. I told him I believed that Sherman's friends would control the convention. That I believed the outside counties would be for Sherman and whoever would be successful must have the support of Sherman's friends. He said he agreed with me, that he believed that Sherman was the strongest man and would win. I said 'to get the support of the Sherman men you will have to pledge yourself to support Sherman.' He said he knew that, and was willing to make such pledge. I said with that understanding I would confer with some of the Sherman men and see what could be done. He said he would be glad to have me do so. I did see several of them, among whom were Col. Waldorf, and told them what Mr. Bolles was willing to do. After that, at the request of Mr. Bolles, I went with him and had on interview with one of the Sherman men spoken of. The puestion of his availability as a candidate was freely discussed. Mr. Bolles was asked what effect his being a candidate and one of the principal editors upon a newspaper that every day during the campaign would be engaged in "pulverizing the rum power" would have upon the large German vote in the district? Mr. Bolles, after some thought, said it would be disastrous and he concluded not to be a candidate."

"Then Mr. Bolles did express himself as willing to pledge himself to support Sherman if he could have the support of Sherman's friends?"

"Yes, sir; he did, and authorized me to say so, and I did what he wished me to do, and I think if it had not been for the other point mentioned, he might have been a Sherman candidate. I did all I could to help him."

THE GALLANT COLONEL.

Some of the papers, in referring to Colonel Ingersoll's remarks at the Carpenter banquet last week, made him say that he would rather go to eternal torment with the woman he loved than to heaven if women were not there. This immensely delighted a certain young woman, who soon after took occasion to tell him so. The colonel heard her through smilingly and then said: "Yes, yes, very nice, indeed, only I never said it." This was a blow, but his eyes twinkled, so she asked him what he had said. He took up a pen and wrote for a moment in silence, handed her the paper and said: "There now, how does that please you?" This was what he had written: "According to the theologians woman brought all the trouble into this world. If that is true, then I had rather live with the woman I love in a world full of trouble than to live in heaven with nobody but men." And the woman liked it better, ever so much.—New York Press.

FIT FOR A POLICE JUDGE

In a Wide Awake City Like Toledo.

A London Judge Who Makes Himself the Laughing Stock of the Whole United Empire.

London, Dec. 17.—The trial of the action for slander brought by Mrs. Osborne against Mrs. Hargreaves, both well known in English society, on account of certain allegations made in connection with some jewelry missed while the two ladies were stopping at Torquay last summer, was continued to-day, before Justice Denman and a special jury in the Queen's bench division of the high court of justice.

Mrs. Sanders, a dressmaker, was corroborating the testimony already given, when Justice Denman, the presiding judge, who caused so much amusement yesterday by his onslaught upon a number of barristers, who, he declared, were making sketches of himself and of the plaintiff, Mrs. Osborne, again angrily sprang to his feet and loudly asserted that some one was sketching him, adding: "I won't have it; I'll have any person turned out of court who takes such liberties with me."

Sir Charles Russell, who appears for the plaintiff at this point, mildly suggested that he did not think anybody was making a sketch of his lordship.

This only seemed to make Justice Denman more angry, for he sharply replied: "I won't have it. I know somebody is sketching me and I won't have it. Besides, they are sketching the witnesses and it disturbs them. I won't have it."

Offices in the Bee building are now complete. They contain all improvements and are the finest in the city.

GONE OVER TO THE ENEMY

Harrison Has Made Elkins Secretary of War,

And in Return Blaine Will Decline to Oppose Him.

Peanut Politics as Worked From the Executive Mansion Puts the Ward Heelers to Shame.

Washington, Dec. 17.—(Special)—President Harrison has stepped down from the high office of president into the political atmosphere of the trickster and ward politician and nominated Steve Elkins for secretary of war, vice Redfield Proctor resigned.

Elkins' history is well known to the political students of the day, and his appointment only confirms the belief that Blaine and Harrison have made a dicker whereby Blaine, in return for the elevation of Elkins to a position where he can manipulate the seal fisheries of the world, is to soon write a public letter to his friends declaring himself out of the presidential race.

So apparent has this deal been that Joe Manly was imported from Augusta, and the announcement that Elkins had been appointed secretary of war was scarcely made before he was proclaiming in a loud voice in the corridors of the public buildings, that Blaine was a candidate and would be nominated.

This pleading guilty before the indictment was found has only added strength to the belief, and Republicans stand aghast at such bad politics coming from the president at a time when the Republican party can least afford it.

CANADIAN AFFAIRS.

Montreal, Dec. 17.—The liberals are very much overcome by the dismissal of the cabinet and violence is feared in Quebec.

Mercier has a large majority behind him and expects in the elections that must follow, to be returned again to office.

WANTED—A GUN.

Maher & Grosh Entertain an Amusing Visitor.

He Fears the Reds and Stops Off at Toledo En Route to St. Louis to Buy a Weapon—The Drummer's Joke.

In Maher & Grosh's hardware store, Summit street, yesterday there was a circus that made amusement enough to last a month. Early yesterday morning a swell Englishman, who seemed from his accent and manner to be just over, entered and asked to see a gun.

"How are the 'reds' out west?"

Mr. W. H. Maher looked at him bewildered a moment and the Englishman continued:

"I am going to St. Louis, and the guard on the train told me I had better go around as the reds (Indians) were very plentiful out there and he said if I wanted to take my hair home with me I had better take a gun along."

M. J. Healy, a New York hardware drummer, who was present tumbled in a moment, and stepping behind the counter whispered to Mr. Maher, "I'll sell this man a gun."

Mr. Maher turned away and watched the interesting proceedings from a distance.

"What kind of a shooter do you want?" asked Mr. Healy.

"I want a gun, you know. Something cheap. I suppose I'll have no use for it after leaving St. Louis. I'm going out there on a little business for our firm, and though I had my life insured before leaving England, still I don't feel safe, you know."

Mr. Healy climbed to the upper shelf, and after some search brought down a $10 muzzle-loader which had lain there 10 years.

Talk about the glib tongue of the average traveling salesman. Healy talked such a torrent of eloquence that the verdant fairly collapsed.

"I'll take it," he said, when Healy got through dilating on the merits of the gun which "had been expressly made for killing Indians, don't you know."

The purchaser went out and Healy was in convulsions in a corner, and the entire company joining in the chorus, when the Englishman reappeared.

"Give me back my money. This gun isn't worth a damn," he began, excitedly.

"What's the matter with the gun?" responded Healy, taking up the weapon and examining it critically.

"I showed it to an officer and he said it wasn't worth a damn."

"Did you tell him what you wanted it for?"

"No, I didn't, but—"

"What's the trouble? This gun, you see—"

"I won't have it. I want back my money."

"My dear sir, when you have lived in America a little while you will find out we never give back money. Now, wouldn't you like to go a little higher for a better gun—one that would kill further, you know?"

"Y-e-s, I suppose so."

"Well, we are just now making a special Indian shooter for Gen. Miles and if you could wait—when do you leave for St. Louis?"

"At 8:30 this morning."

Turning to Mr. Maher:

"Can we have one of these Miles guns out by that time?"

Mr. Maher responded that he did not know.

"I'll see that you have it by 7:30. The regular cost is $15, but inasmuch as there has been a mistake we will let you have it for $13."

The Englishman was satisfied and left, saying he would be back on time.

"I bet you he won't come back," laughed Mr. Maher.

"Won't he, though?" responded the irrepressible salesman, as he took off his coat, and calling for a chamois skin began polishing the weapon.

"Now, I'm going to St. Louis to-night," said Mr. Healy, "and I'm going to get a berth with the extra $3. Is it a go?"

"If you sell, yes," responded the proprietor. "But why did you stave him off until 7:30?"

"Why, man alive, do you think I was going to give him an opportunity of running up against another officer?"

It developed later that the officer was Police Officer Brady.

At 7:30 the Englishman returned and paid the $3 extra for the same weapon.

Healy left for St. Louis last night, and Mr. Maher is in hourly expectation of hearing of "another Indian uprising" out west.

THE NEEDED HOLIDAY BOOK.

Publishers of books for the holiday trade would do well to get out a new edition of the popular manual, "The Pocket-Book." The binding may be as plain and unpretentious as possible, but the contents should be printed on paper of special quality, and every care should be taken with the engraving. It ought to contain several hundred pages, and as many fine steel portraits of distinguished Americans. A presentation copy of such a work would receive enthusiastic praise from all the receivers.—Boston Post.

Don't expect your husband to be pleased if you give him an ivory backed hand-mirror.—Harper's.

ANGLING FOR THE OCTOPUS.

The Bait Is a Piece of White Cloth Tied on a Hook.

"It is no trick to catch them. They are pulled out with hook and line from the deep waters of the sound, just like fish, and are found on the rocky bottoms of the fishing banks," said a Seattle fisherman to a reporter.

"Look at this," continued Nick raising the slimy mass of legs and pointing to a perfect counterpart of a parrot's black beak, only much larger and more powerful. When once those jaws fasten on the bait they never let go until landed on the deck of the boat.

"No; they seldom give us much trouble. That is part of a Greek fisherman's early education. Experience has taught the men how to handle them safely. The only care necessary is to prevent their fastening their suckers on the sides and bottom of the boat. If, by accident or carelessness, they should succeed in doing so the octopus is safe, for the suction of those cuplike disks is so great that nothing but the knife can dislodge them, and, as they can't be reached, they get away.

"The men know by the weight on the line and its action when an octopus is hooked. Then, by means of poles, the line is kept away from the boat, and, watching a favorable opportunity, with the assistance of boat hooks the fellow is suddenly yanked on board and left to thrash its life away on deck. Of course the men have learned to keep carefully out of reach of its tentacles.

"On a clear day and in clear weather one can see an octopus at great depths. Their bodies usually lie hidden under shelving rocks, leaving only one or more of those long feelers visible, moving cautiously back and forth. By baiting a hook with a white rag and dropping it close by, it is fun to watch their movements. They pretend not to see the bait, believing it is a living prey.

"They will advance their feelers inch by inch, and gradually their body, and retreat again, as if to gnaw on the intended victim. Playing the bait back and forth excites their cupidity, and when satisfied of the result the beast makes a spring for the bait that for lightning-like rapidity, beats anything on record. Of course it fastens its razor-like, double-back-action beak into the rag and holds on like grim death, allowing itself to be pulled out of the water rather than let go.

THE FIGURES ON CLOCK DIALS.

It has been demonstrated that all persons ordinarily read a clock dial by the position of the figures and disregard the figures themselves. One of the best known public dials in Boston has no mark save a straight line at each end of the places usually occupied by the Roman numerals, and the maker of the great clock of the London parliament houses made another great dial upon which he indicated each hour by a single straight line.

GIGANTIC TRANSACTION.

Pennsylvania Railroad Company Buys the Rolling Mill Line.

Will Build Half a Mile of Docks on the East Side.

Negotiations for the Purchase of th Clark Syndicate Tract of 39 Acres About Closed—A Line to the Pennsylvania Coal Fields.

What promises to be one of the greatest industrial transactions in this city for years began a day or two ago, when the Pennsylvania Railroad company bought the branch road running from Cherry street, East Toledo, to the rolling mills. The consideration was $40,000. The branch has been known as the Rolling Mill line.

This is merely an opening of a transaction which will possibly make Toledo one of the largest coal distributing points on the lakes, if not in the country.

The plan is to secure a half mile of dockage on the river front, and yesterday negotiations were about closed whereby certain parties connected with the eastern branches of the Pennsylvania may secure the Clark syndicate tract of 39 acres located on the river front. The consideration is $150,000

Mr. J. C. Clark was seen this morning on the subject by a Bee, but the gentleman was reticent.

"The deal has not been closed," he said, "but I am in hopes it will be in a day or two."

"Who are the purchasers, Mr. Clark?"

"That is a secret. I will let you know when the deal is closed."

"Is it not a prominent railroad company?"

"Oh, I cannot tell you just now. Certain eastern parties are here and they may possibly buy it."

This is all Mr. Clark would say, but the Bee has it pretty straight that it is the Pennsylvania company.

The company has been at work for over a month securing the right of way from the rolling mills down the river bank towards the Clark tract, and have been so far very successful.

"If this were all the transaction meant it would not be of the greatest significance," said the gentleman who seems to know this morning to a Bee, "but it means much more. Do you remember me telling you that the Pennsylvania was building a low grade line to the Pennsylvania coal fields? Yes? Well, that line is now in process of construction, and will tap the Pennsylvania coal region somewhere about Cambridge. The significance of the move is seen from what you tell me of the company buying the so-called Rolling Mill line. It means the construction of immense docks by the company on the East Side, and it means this: Toledo will not only be the great distributing point for Hocking Valley coal, but also for the Pennsylvania product."

The Clark tract is a triangle whose base rests on the river front. It is half of section 29, which is divided by the river. In the syndicate are Mr. J. C. Clark, Mr. J. S. Rodgers and the Wick Bros., of Youngstown.

There should be no trouble in securing the right of way on the East Side. It would pay East Toledo to buy the desired right of way, and present it to the Pennsylvania company.

CRISP'S COMMITTEES.

Ways and Means Greatly Increased.

Ex-Speaker Reed Will Have a Place on It—Bland to Head the Coinage Committee.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The membership of the ways and means committee will doubtless be increased to 15 members. Besides Mr. Springer, who is generally believed will be its chairman, those prominently mentioned as associates are Representatives McMillin, Turner, of Georgia; Fitch, of New York; Stevens, of Massachusetts; Bryan, of Nebraska; Outhwaite, of Ohio; Bynum or Shively, of Indiana, and Whiting, of Michigan, from the democrats, and Reed, of Maine; McKenna, of California; Hopkins, of Illinois; Harmon, of Pennsylvania; Henderson, of Iowa, and a New England or a New York republican.

Mr. Bland, it is almost certain, will head the coinage committee, and it is believed by many that only those members who have hitherto held free coinage views will be selected as associates.

The civil service committee will, it seems probable, be represented by men who are in sympathy with the law.

FORGER CAUGHT.

He is Wanted in Toledo and is Landed by Detroit Police.

Detective Nichter is in Detroit to-day to bring back to this city a man named Charles Johnson, who is wanted for forgery. Johnson was only in Toledo a short time, and was boarding with Mrs. Ulgener on Superior street. Last week he presented a check for $25 in payment of a week's board. The paper appeared to be signed by George H. Ketcham and the woman cashed it, taking out what was owed for board. The check was on the Merchants' National bank, and when the woman presented it she discovered that it was a forgery.

She at once reported the matter to the police, but in the meantime the man had escaped. He was located in Detroit, however, and arrested there yesterday

The Young People's Pleasure club gave a dancing party at Emery hall last evening. About 250 guests were present and the affair was voted a grand success. The young ladies belonging to this club are the Misses Bessie Gensbechler, Oalia Jacobs, Aggie Gustie, Nettie and Cad Arnsman, Lizzie Noomen, Rose Huffman, Bertha Huffman and Jessie Murray.

A number of the relatives and friends of Mrs. Frank Meenan dropped in to surprise her at the family home on Stickney avenue last night, and to remind the lady of the passing of another milestone in her life. As soon the surprise feature was over, the company set about to amuse themselves, and with games and music a pleasant evening was spent. Refreshments were served, and it was nearly midnight before the self-invited guests took their departure.

A very pleasant party assembled at the home of Mrs. P. J. Mettler, of 811 Walnut street, yesterday, to congratulate her on her 50th birthday. An elegant repast was served at 4 o'clock, after which cards were indulged in until a late hour. Many very valuable presents were received. Among the friends present were: Mesdames John Jacobi, T. Welshofer, J. Zanley, H. Wernert, Geo. Schneider P. Jacobi, F. Dimmer, T. Senn, Meier, Heary, J. Whidmeier, H. Mueller, G. A. Dennis, A. Saal, and Armstead. The party was a total surprise to Mrs. Mettler and the joke was enjoyed very much among the friends who participated.

The concert given at Westminster church last evening was a rare musical treat, and the cultured audience was enthusiastic in its applause, as each number on the program was faultlessly rendered. The club was assisted by Miss Nellie Goodwin, Miss Bessie Doolittle and Mr. E. B. Spalding, of Detroit. Miss Goodwin and Miss Doolittle each possess remarkable voices, pure and sweet, and their singing is sure to be appreciated by the public. Mr. Spalding has a fine baritone, and was encored after both of his selections. The chorus shows excellent training, and disproves the theory that a chorus is incomplete without male voices. Eurydice was the wife of Orpheus, and if she was as pleasing as are the ladies of this club, she was a charming woman and Orpheus must have been very happy.

Charges Preferred Against Chief of Police O'Dwyer,

For Contempt of Court and Exceeding Authority.

They Come From Judge Sala and Mayor Emmick and Some of the Proceedings Are Very Strange—The Chief Makes a Denial.

At the meeting of the board of police commissioners last night all members were present except Mr. Kruse. The meeting was quiet and harmonious enough in appearance, but there was a strong undercurrent of feeling, and something of a sensation was sprung in the shape of charges against Chief O'Dwyer.

These charges were not in formal shape, but the meaning was the same, and they included a communication from Police Judge Sala charging the chief with contempt of court and exceeding his authority.

The cause of all this was one Ed Stryker, arrested about the first of the month, charged with petit larceny. When the defendant appeared in court it was very evident that he was demented, and Judge Sala committed him to the probate court for an inquest in lunacy, and reserved his decision in the larceny case pending this hearing. The man was afterwards released by the chief and the next day was arrested again for drunkenness, and in resisting the officer was badly beaten. He has since been adjudged insane.

The documents, presented to the police board last night, consisted of a letter from Dr. F. A. Kitchen, the prison physician, to Judge I. I. Millard, calling his attention to the case of the man Stryker. Dr. Kitchen stated that he was called to attend the man at the police station and found him badly beaten about the head and body, so that he remained in a semi-comatose state for three days. The man, he said, was demented, and under these circumstances he considered that he had been treated with unwarranted brutality, and he asked that some action be taken in the matter.

Next was a letter from Judge Millard to Mayor Emmick, enclosing Dr. Kitchen's letter, and recommending an investigation.

Probate Judge's Office,
Toledo, Dec. 8, 1891.

Hon. V. J. Emmick, Mayor, etc., Toledo, Ohio:

Dear Sir—I am just in receipt of the enclosed communication from Dr. F. A. Kitchen, the jail physician. I feel myself that some one has greatly wronged this man Edward Streicher, but who, where or when I know not. He appeared in the probate court in charge of two officers of the police court with whom I am personally acquainted and who I know would not abuse any one who should be arrested by them. It is not my place to find fault with any one, and I know not with whom to find fault in this case if I wanted to, but it does seem to me that some one should learn the history of the bruises which the doctor says this man carries, and if made in a manner not warranted by the facts a word of caution would, at least, not be out of the way. The man has been adjudged insane and is held and well cared for while the authorities are adjusting with the officers of his home county and arranging for his admittance to the insane asylum of the proper district. If this comes under your jurisdiction I wish you would see if something should not be done to clear up the suspicion of wrong usage. I. I. MILLARD.

Mayor Emmick stated that he had called Police Judge Sala's attention to the case, and that gentleman's reply came next as follows:

"My attention having been called to Judge Millard's communication to you, and believing that the proceedings of our courts should be respected and their orders fulfilled, and considering the fact that Chief O'Dwyer totally disregarded the orders of the police court made in a case where a person was charged with violating the state law, and the further fact that the accused was tried in open court and that the decision was reserved until the order of the court was carried out, to-wit: an inquiry as to the defendant's sanity.

"That said order releasing a person and refusing to obey the orders of the court, is a contempt of court. Common decency demands that when a criminal is before the court and when the court believes the person insane, that he should be bound over to the probate court to have his sanity inquired into and adjudged. Indeed a court could not legally convict a person that is insane for the crime this man was charged with committing. Taking the same view of the case as Judge Millard, and believing that a great wrong has been committed, first in disregarding the orders of the court of which Chief O'Dwyer is an officer; and second, that through such disregard of judicial orders, binding upon Chief O'Dwyer, a grave and serious injury has been inflicted upon a poor and defenseless insane person, through such disregard of the orders of court; that for such reason the position taken by Judge Millard in his communication to the mayor of the city, is correct and should be investigated to the end that the orders of courts should be respected, and the infirm and helpless protected. Therefore, Hon. Mayor Emmick, as per request, I submit to you this statement of this case with the formal entries of the court under seal of the clerk of court."

This was followed by a transcript of the court docket, as follows:

State of Ohio, Lucas County, ss.—Police Court, City of Toledo.

State of Ohio, 36387, vs. Fred Streicher—November term, Friday 27th, 1891—petit larceny.

Affidavit and information filed, defendant in court. Plea not guilty, ready for trial. Trial had, defendant bound over to probate court to inquire into his lunacy.

City of Toledo, 36,404, vs. Ed. Stryker—December term, Wednesday 2, 1891—Drunkenness.

Affidavit filed November 30, 1891, case marked off docket on motion of city. Off docket.

City of Toledo, 36408, vs. Ed Stryker—December term, Wednesday 2, 1891—Resisting officer.

Affidavit filed November 30, 1891. Case marked off docket on motion of city. Off docket. Ordered to be taken to the probate court to inquire into his lunacy.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, ss.

I, M. C. Fogarty, clerk of police court of said city, do hereby certify, that the foregoing is a true transcript of the proceedings had before the said court in said causes as appears on record.

Given under my hand and seal this 7th day of December, A. D., 1891.

M. C. FOGARTY,
Police Clerk.

These charges against the chief came in the nature of a bomb-shell, but nothing was said, and on motion of Mr. Waring the matter was laid over until the next meeting.

The Chief's Denial.

In the matter of these charges Chief O'Dwyer denies any intention of disregarding the orders of the court or showing any contempt. "I knew nothing of the disposition of this man's case," said he. "If the judge made an order committing him to the probate court I was not notified. I found that the man had been locked up several days and on the blotter the only charge against him was one of suspicion. I regarded him as a tramp and on Saturday had a talk with him. He said he wanted to go to Steubenville, and as is the usual custom in such cases I turned over to Officer Ashby with instructions to escort him out of town and show him the way to Steubenville. I believe Ashby took him to the Wheeling & Lake Erie track and released him. Sunday he was arrested in the Fifth ward by Officers Flannagan and Mason, and it was in resisting these officers that he was beaten as has been stated.

"It has always been customary with judges in this court to talk with me about such cases, and when they express a wish to have a man sent to the probate court I always send him over at once. Judge Sala said nothing to me about this man, as he should have done, until he was brought in the second time; then he came to my office and spoke about him, and I immediately sent the man over. In this conversation the judge was very pleasant, and did not say anything about my having shown contempt for his court or having exceeded my authority. My first intimation that anyone thought I had not done my duty was last Sunday when the mayor told me of these charges and I was very much surprised. Another curious thing about Judge Sala's action in this matter is the fact that he brings these charges of contempt of court before the police board. If I showed any contempt of his court, as he says, he could punish me himself and he should have taken me before the court."

Under the Surface.

There is much more in this matter than appears upon the face, and a little light will not come amiss. As will be seen by the documents, the principal accuser of the chief is Police Judge Sala, whose opposition to the head of the department is well known. It is likewise evident that Mayor Emmick is also at the bottom of it, for he and Sala consult each other on all these matters, and have played together ever since they have been in office. Besides this, Judge Sala's communication to the mayor is in type matter manuscript and the same was gotten up in Mayor Emmick's office and done on the type writer in the mayor's office. These and other points go to show that the charges are made against the chief as the result of a plot by the same clique that has been trying to get his scalp for so long. The charges are not in proper form and were gotten up in an underhanded way as will be shown when the matter is investigated by the board. It is true that the chief released this man, but not in such a way as to be contempt of court or exceeding his authority, and he is not responsible for the beating the man afterwards received.

At the time the man was arrested the second time Judge Sala made no complaint to the chief, but a few days after ward Judge Sala and Mayor Emmick went to Canton and returned Saturday, the 5th. On the next Monday Judge Sala went to Police Clerk Fogarty and asked for the transcript in the Stryker cases.

What the judge did at that time is best told by Mr. Fogarty himself, and his statement shows that Sala went about it in anything but a straightforward manner.

Mr. Fogarty, who is ill with an attack of the grip, was seen at his residence on Bancroft street by a Bee this morning and said: "I don't believe there is anything in the charges brought against Chief O'Dwyer last night, and they are simply part of a scheme. On Monday, the 7th, Judge Sala made a change in the police court docket of Wednesday, the second in the case of Ed Stryker, charged with resisting officer. The docket read, 'Marked off docket on motion of city,' and he added the words, 'Ordered to be taken to the probate court to inquire into his lunacy.' He then went to Sam Tanner and had him make the change on the court journal. I told Sam that day that I did not approve of this, as the judge makes out his own docket each day. From that we make up the journal which is read in court the next morning, and passed upon and signed by him. The business for that day is then closed up. If he had any changes or corrections to make that was the time to do it, and not a week after.

"The same Monday morning that this change was made the judge came to me and asked for a transcript of these three Stryker cases. I prepared it as the record then stood, and when I gave it to him he asked me to write a statement at the bottom, which he should dictate. He said it would look better to be all in the same handwriting. He did not tell me what this statement was to be, and I refused to write it. This seemed to anger him, and he snatched the transcript and went away with it. I understand it was presented to the board last night."

The general impression about the city especially among the legal fraternity, seems to be that Judge Sala has "put his foot into it" again, and he is being heartily laughed at for the bungling way in which he has gone about punishing a man for contempt of court. Lawyers interviewed by a Bee this morning all stated that Judge Sala had taken the wrong course. If the chief had shown contempt of court the judge had the redress in his own hands and could have punished him for it, but he makes no attempt to do this, and lays the matter before the police board which has no jurisdiction over any contempt of police court. It is also a question as to whether the judge of police court has any power to formally bind a man over to the probate court for an inquiry in lunacy. By consulting with other officers a man can be sent there, and that is the course which has always been pursued by previous judges.

Columbus Worked Against Toledo Last Year

And is in Turn Thrown Down by the Association.

The Twelve-Club League Formed—A Movement on Foot to Form Another Circuit—Toledo May Be Visited.

Indianapolis, Dec. 17.—(Special)—By the terms of the new deal the association-league will be composed of the following cities:

East—Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore.

West—Pittsburg, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago, St. Louis.

The distribution of players is now taking place, and the meeting will probably end to-night.

Columbus and Milwaukee are frozen out of the association.

So is the Chicago association club and its owners are wild.

When they saw things going against them they hoped to be bought, but they got nothing.

Last night representatives of these three clubs met and determined to form a new association with a new circuit, including Chicago, Milwaukee, Columbus, Buffalo, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Omaha and St. Paul.

This circuit is not a good one, as Indianapolis and Milwaukee are poor ball towns, and there is a sentiment among ball managers here that if Toledo could be induced to join Columbus and Detroit the old International could be revived, or the Eastern league, made very strong.

In Detail.

Indianapolis, Dec. 17.—The league sat up all night in session with the conference joint committee after that body had heard the complete demands of the Milwaukee, Columbus and Chicago clubs. At 6 o'clock this morning the body adjourned without reaching any final result.

This final result, President Young, Von Der Ahe and others say, will be reached this afternoon, when the joint meeting of both organizations will be held.

The association met at 11 o'clock to hear the report of the committee. At this meeting the ratification of the new plan is to accur. The details of the new league, including the distribution of players, preservation of the national agreement Sunday ball towns and like matters, were discussed at length.

The first matter—the distribution of players—Mr. Scandrett of Pittsburg says will be left to a committee and each club will put in its demands for the players not reserved that it wants when the consolidation occurs.

The committee will be authorized to divide the players so as to equally strengthen each club.

Louisville and St. Louis will be permitted to play Sunday ball and the schedule will be made up on this basis. The general admission is still an open matter but the majority is said to be in favor of 25 cents tariff.

At 9:30 this morning the joint committee again went into session, while the league officials were still asleep. Von Der Ahe said that the differences were now slight and were such as would be easily adjusted.

"It will take the committee and association two or three hours," he said, "to end this matter and then the joint meeting alone remains to perfectly accomplish everything. After that meeting a full statement of the details will be given out or at least I believe it will."

Owing to the lateness of the hours kept by everybody last night not a dozen were up until noon. Nearly all the Chicago association backers left on the early morning train, leaving President Williams, Sam Morton and Fred Pfeffer in charge.

They charge Von Der Ahe with the boldest kind of treachery, in that he knew at the time they were taken into the association that they could not continue. Before the committee last night they asked that their proposition be heard and it was. They proposed that if the league abandoned the twelve-club plan and declare off all negotiations with the association they would stand aloof from the association when it turned to them and thus that organization would be left with seven clubs, two in straightened circumstances—Louisville and Milwaukee—and another, Columbus without a player signed.

Without Chicago's assistance this circuit would disintegrate and Von Der Ahe would have to retire from the business.

TOLEDO, OHIO, DECEMBER 17, 1891.

Peffer is a good republican but a poor alliance member.

The Foraker men claim everything, and more too, with confidence.

Mr. Foraker has more fool friends in Toledo than in any other part of Ohio.

Mr. Griffin has moved his headquarters from Ohio to Columbus. He and George Cox and Foraker are now chumming together.

Now by the Great Horn Spoon let the war proceed. Steve Elkins is appointed Secretary of War. And he is a cousin of Jim Blaine, of Maine.

Springer as chairman of the ways and means committee will be satisfactory to the tariff reformers. He is in thorough accord with public sentiment.

The state of Louisiana has a political issue all its own: lottery and anti-lottery. To anybody outside the atmosphere, there is but one side to the question.

The private secretary will not be greater than the governor, but Jimmy Boyle will average with the best of governors. He is one of the brightest newspaper men in the west.

The republican papers who fear the free list will be extended are not in accord with the reciprocitarians who are shouting praises to Blaine's policy of extended trade.

The selection of Judge William H. Taft, of Cincinnati, to be a judge of the new circuit court will give general satisfaction. He is a very able lawyer, and a man of decided character.

The waterways convention, in session in Detroit to-day, is largely attended by earnest, practical men, who thoroughly understand the necessities of lake navigation. The result of their deliberations will be valuable help to those congressmen who represent marine districts. Liberal appropriations and scientific engineering will accomplish wonders for the lake service.

To a man in the gallery having lots of fun it looks very much as if Collector Waldorf has decidedly the better of the controversy with Mr. Bolles. Corroborative proof is supplied and the charge is direct from first hands that Stephen did agree to support Sherman if the boys would nominate him for the state senate. It has become a question of veracity between Col. J. C. Bonner, chairman of the republican central committee, and Mr. Bolles. People may believe either republican they choose. "The plot thickens and the villain still pursues her."

There is not one word of commendation, from any republican quarter, for the workings of the prohibitive part of the new tariff law—the Blaine addendum is what has opened the market for barrels of pork and bushels of wheat. Says the Boston Journal: "Reciprocity is irresistible." Reciprocity is free trade on the "dicker" plan, and its results are simply a weak indication of what would follow if hindrances were removed and trade were allowed to flow in natural channels. It is one step in the way of conversion.

The administration organs miss a point when they accuse "free traders" of being in sympathy with the British view of the difficulty between Chile and the United States. They affirm that the British influence is to stir up a warlike feeling between the two countries, and at the same time the reports via London push the matter in the direction of arbitration by insisting that this country, through acts of Minister Egan, did not preserve its neutrality. If Great Britain really wants to see our navy go into Chilian waters on hostile deeds intent, she would prod us on to believe we had been grievously outraged and there were no mitigating circumstances to cause us to consider.

Boston is one of the most reliable democratic cities in the country. A good ticket is certain to receive a large majority of the popular vote. Thus, Mayor Matthews, who served the city acceptably the past year, was re-elected on Tuesday by an increased majority, more than 15,000 this time. Boston people vote the democratic ticket from motives of principle. In no other city is the science of government more thoroughly understood, and for much of the good democratic results the broad-minded teachings of Harvard University are to be credited. The study of governments makes a reliable citizenship, and the more intelligently the study is prosecuted the firmer in the faith of democracy will the students become. Cultured Boston is in the advanced democratic column.

If ever "the judicial ermine" lends dignity to an otherwise mediocre bench the cloak utterly fails of duty when used to cover the shortcomings of the ordinary police court—especially Toledo's petty court in this year of grace now closing. Our little judge is a small caliber, smooth bore politician, though if he were not so small of stature he and the officially swelled mayor would be a good pair of political Johns.

The court is insulted. Its hat is banged over its eyes. The ermine is dragged in the tobacco juice of the court room, and justice is limping with a sore toe.

The cause of this trouble is an alleged case of contempt of court and the contemptor is no less a person than our big Chief O'Dwyer. A crazy tramp was locked up. The police judge says he ordered the fellow before the probate court for examination in lunacy. The chief was not informed of the action of the police court and in a few days released the tramp and ordered him out of town. He didn't go, but got drunk, resisted an officer, was hit with a club and was again taken to the lock-up. The judge heard of it. Offended dignity swelled to monstrous proportions. The mayor was consulted. The two swelled some more. Vincey isn't done swelling yet. The grievance was taken to the police board on a charge of contempt of court. The investigation was postponed two weeks. In the interim the Judge and the Mayor will maintain the equilibrium of their wrath as best they may.

In all probability the chief will be able to make a clear statement, and Sala and Emmick will appear ridiculously small again in public estimation. Then the two plotters will probably appeal their grievance to the republican legislature. Bet a big cookey that is why the case is started. Ward politicians are after the scalps of O'Dwyer, the democratic members of the police board and democratic patrolmen.

That's the milk in this cocoanut.

To-day is the anniversary of the birth of our Quaker poet, John Greenleaf Whittier, who was born at Haverill, Mass., on December 17, 1807. They are fewer in number with every passing year, the poets whose songs lifted our souls and set our feet in higher paths in the days when for us it was, as for his "Barefoot Boy,"

> Boyhood's time of June
> Crowding years in one brief moon.

Because they are fewer and must soon all be numbered with the silent majority we are jealously affectionate toward those who remain, and to-day, sitting amid the telegrams, letters and tokens of good wishes that have been sent him, the singer by the Merrimac must feel the hope of his own song has been realized:

> "Yet, haply, in some lull of life,
> Some truce of God which breaks its strife,
> The worldling's eyes shall gather dew
> Dreaming in thoughtful city ways
> On winter joys his boyhood knew.
>
> * * * *
>
> Sit with me by the homestead hearth,
> And stretch the hands of memory forth
> To warm them by the wood-fire's blaze,
> And thanks untraced to lips unknown
> Shall greet me like the odors blown
> From unseen meadows newly mown,
> Or lilies floating in some pond
> Wood-fringed, the wayside gaze beyond."

They Know Their Duty.

Professor of Civil Government—Now, Mr. Brown, we will suppose that after a long recess congress has reassembled. The new speaker is chosen. The president's message recommending needed legislation has been read. The great duty of providing for the collection of the revenue, making provision for necessary public improvements, ratifying or rejecting the treaties which the executive has negotiated with foreign governments, and generally giving to the wheels of government the impetus needed to keep them moving for another year confronts the senators and representatives. Such is the situation at the opening of congress. What now, I ask you, Mr. Brown, is the first action to be taken by the two houses of the national legislature?

Mr. Brown (confidently)—Adjourn until after the holidays.—Chicago Times.

The Tottering States.

Only a few weeks ago the republican politicians urged that their national convention must be held at Minneapolis in order to save the state of Minnesota to the party. Now Senator Cullom's friends are urging him for the vice presidency on the ground that only thus can Illinois be held securely in the republican column. Thus is the precarious condition of the tottering republican states exposed by the frightened politicians and party managers.—Newark Advocate.

Well Said.

Mr. Harrison "views with alarm" the election of presidential electors by congressional districts as dangerous to the rights of the people. If we understand Mr. Harrison correctly, he would remove the offices as far away as possible from the people. Mr. Harrison will be sized up in history as a very narrow politician who sees the offices before he sees the people, and his party before he sees the country.—Zanesville Signal.

But They Don't Stop.

The fight between the Sherman and Foraker factions is growing bitter. Sherman's friends are conducting an unusually decent and straightforward campaign, but it is charged that some of the Foraker newspapers have recently been getting very near the political gutter. They have been warned that the mud-throwing must stop.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

The Battle Cry of Freedom.

If congress passes bills to put wool, binding twine, iron ties, ores and other necessaries and raw materials on the free list, next year's democratic campaign will be made under a "battle cry of freedom," and that battle cry is usually a winning one in this republic.—New York World.

Something Else Would Bring 'Em On.

One great advantage of removing Gen. Grant's remains from New York is that "Let Us Have Peace" can then be put on his tombstone without giving Col. Elliott F. Shepard and Grand Demander Palmer the hysterics.—St. Louis Republic.

Very Far from Still.

The Memphis Appeal-Avalanche asks: "As the voice of Col. Elliott Fandango Shepard is still for war why should he not be made secretary of that article?" But, bless you, his voice is not still.—Chicago Mail.

Now and Then.

At present Harrison seems to have the logic of the situation on his side. After the nominating convention he will probably have the logic and be without the situation.—Atlanta Journal.

Silence That is Heard.

Mr. Blaine continues to thunder forth his silence on the subject of a presidential nomination. If this thing keeps on he'll get there.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat (rep.)

Where We May Be Next Year.

If the foreign wheat crop had been large this year, what could we have done with our 600,000,000 bushels?—Courier-Journal.

Blustering Weather.

England appears to be storm stricken this fall. The weather over there just now can outblow Johnny Bull.—New Delta.

SOLID FOR SHERMAN.

Col. Brinsmade Believes the Sage of Mansfield Will Be Re-elected.

United States District Attorney Brinsmade arrived in the city last evening from Cleveland, and this morning a Bee found him busy preparing cases that come up before Judge Ricks this week in the U. S. court.

"What do you know of the senatorial contest?" he was asked.

"Well, I have just returned from Washington, and I found there an almost universal desire and demand for Mr. Sherman's return to the senate."

"What do you hear from the state at large?"

"Oh, I don't think there is the least question but that Mr. Sherman will receive all the votes he requires. In fact, I believe he will have a very handsome majority."

"How does the Cuyahoga delegation stand?"

"With one exception they are for Mr. Sherman, and I would not be at all surprised if that exception, Mr. Parker, will be for him, too, when it comes to a vote."

THE GRIP AND ITS VICTIMS.

Senator Quay has the grip—on the political machine.—Philadelphia Times.

Senator Quay is reported down with the grip. It was generally supposed he had lost it.—Boston Herald.

Between the grip and the office-seekers, Gov.-elect McKinley is not having a very pleasant time of it.—Washington Post.

It is to be hoped that the grip may not become epidemic in the Texas county where the population numbers only three persons.—Courier-Journal.

Secretary Foster is "now out of danger," but the "net cash balance" of the treasury isn't. It is in the last stages of galloping consumption.—Shenandoah News.

It is said that the grip is a nerve trouble and only strikes the brain workers. The Earnest Workers first caught it in the pocket nerve.—Philadelphia Record.

A Washington dispatch says that Mr. Mills is laid up with the grip, which newspaper paragraphers will take notice is entirely probable, since he certainly hasn't lost it, despite recent events.—Wheeling Register.

It must not be inferred that the grip attacks only distinguished people. It is only such people whose troubles the newspapers keep track of. Ordinary folks have it just the same, but they don't get their names published until they die.—Boston Herald.

> Be very careful of your health; it's worth your while to try
> And eat and drink with caution and to keep your stockings dry,
> For though this is a healthy town diseases lurk about,
> And the awful grip 'll get you if you don't watch out.
>
> —Chicago Mail.

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS.

That Toledo is well represented at the waterways convention now in session at Detroit.

That as soon as the Wheeling shops start up, there will be employment for several hundred men.

That there were 26 national bank failures this year, but Toledo looms up safe and sound in this line.

That there are several hops arranged by various organizations to be held between now and New Year's eve.

That the freight handlers at the various depots are running with extra force moving holiday goods here and there.

That Maumee Valley lodge of Odd Fellows will rejoice this evening at being out of debt for its share of the temple.

That the St. Clair street bridge is liable to cause much sorrow throughout the city one of these days unless put in shape.

That the marine men are well pleased with the season's business, though many would be happier if it had been better.

That it is expected the criminal docket will be reached in United States court to-morrow, and will be crowded at a lively rate.

That the so-called opposition to Bishop Hortsmann is the work of disappointed prelates and will not have the effect intended.

That Street Commissioner Bower's management of the streets is not such as to make the voters of Toledo howl for his re-election.

That clerks in the stores, as well as the managers, would be glad if customers would more generally do business in the mornings.

That Judge Ricks, of the United States court, is a good walker. He takes three regulations each day, morning, afternoon and evening.

That one of the busiest points in the city is to be found at the back and front of the Woolson building, on Superior and Huron streets.

That Representative Flickinger will miss his pleasant afternoons at the O. Y. C. when he retires to the quiet town of Columbus in January.

That when Findlay lets the gas into its new 12-inch main, the field which supplies Toledo will have an additional main that cannot fail to have its effect.

That the local fight on the senatorial question is not without its ridiculous features, and the reader in general does not need a diagram to discover them.

That the extension of the switch at the corner of Summer and South streets, on the Robison line, is a great convenience to the public as well as the motormen.

That the Bell building, adjoining the postoffice on St. Clair street, is being put in shape for I. H. Detwiler & Co., who will occupy it on the completion of the improvements.

That there is great regret at the removal of Rector Smythe to Mt. Vernon. As a minister he was a general favorite, and as a citizen he was interested in every movement for Toledo's benefit.

That some idea may be gained of the immensity of the Gendron factory if one will station himself at the foot of the hill when the whistle blows to release the employes; they come out in droves.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

S. V. White, the Wall street magnate, strenuously objects to the continued sobriquet of "Deacon."

A son of Joseph Jefferson, the famous American comedian, of "Rip Van Winkle" fame, has been in London on a visit to his sister, who is the wife of Mr. B. L. Farjeon, the novelist.

Some opposition is manifested in the south to pensioning Mrs. Jefferson Davis. The Vicksburg Post thinks not only that it would breed sectionalism, but also that the services of Mr. Davis contributed less to the confederate cause than those of some other southern leaders.

Lord Dufferin, who succeeds the late Lord Lytton as British ambassador to France, can write himself Frederick Temple Hamilton-Temple Blackwood, K. P., P. C., G. C. B., G. C. S. I., G. C. M. G., G. C. I. E., F. R. S., D. C. L., LL. D., Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, Earl of Dufferin, Baron Dufferin and Clandeboye of Clandeboye.

Mrs. John J. Bagley, who recently accompanied Mrs. Potter Palmer in her tour of Texas, is one of the most enthusiastic workers in behalf of the women of Michigan. She is the widow of the late Gov. Bagley, of Michigan, and is a member-at-large of the board of lady managers and chairman of the committee on foreign affairs.

Capt. Jack Crawford, the poet-scout, is a most interesting character. He has been in the service of the government since 1863, when, as a boy of 15, he enlisted in the army. His muscular form and erect military bearing made him conspicuous everywhere. Captain Crawford desires to be put in charge of the Indian exhibit at the world's fair, and there is a rivalry between him and "Buffalo Bill" for that purpose.

Frank Dickens, the novelist's second son, is buried in the little city of Moline, Illinois. He was the restless and wandering member of the family, and after a career of adventure, embracing service under Louis Riel, the Canadian rebel, and a prodigal life in Chicago, he died. His grave is in a quiet little churchyard and the small monument that marks it bears the inscription: "Frank Geoffrey Dickens, this second son of mine."

THE FACTIOUS FACTIONS.

So far as harmony is concerned just now Ireland's method of "Wearing of the Green" is apparently only to hide the black eye one faction is giving the other.—Philadelphia Times.

The McCarthyites and the Parnellites met in a bloody battle at a political meeting yesterday, and broken heads were numerous. Possibly it is on account of such uncivilized conduct in Ireland that home rule is delayed.—Kansas City Star.

The Irish question will never be settled until the factionists at home become more skillful in the use of weapons. With no greater intensity or effectiveness to the contention than was exhibited at Waterford, Sunday, both sides will hold out forever.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Still another instance of the potency of the shillalah argument in Irish politics is furnished in the case of Mr. Davitt, who could not see his way to becoming a candidate in Waterford till the idea has been hammered into his head with a blackthorn. The same argument will doubtless be applied to the electors to ensure his return by a large majority.—Toronto Empire.

Michael Davitt is not the man to let a single rap on the head be the cause of his retirement from the field of politics; and so he has pluckily resolved to stand for the late Richard Power's seat at Waterford. He had refused the candidacy, but his mind underwent a change coincidently with the blow from a blackthorn. Davitt is among the brainiest and best esteemed of the Irish leaders, and his name would add strength to any cause which he might actively espouse.—Philadelphia Record.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES.

The Catholic Club To-night—Ramabai Circle—Colloquial Club.

This evening the Catholic club will meet in the hall over Whitney & Currier's music store, the former meeting place in the Hubbard block having proved too small for the club's growing membership. A discussion upon permanent quarters will be part of the business this evening.

This evening's program includes selections on the aeolian organ; solo, "I Am Waiting" (Burch), by Prof. John B. Poulin, and "Thou Art so Like a Flower" (Rubenstein), Miss Annie Meilink; piano accompaniment to soloists by Miss Marie Ulrich; recitation, "Ostler Joe," Dr. Frank Monroe, and other literary features. Entrance to music hall through the music store. New members will be heartily welcomed.

Mrs. Francis Sumner entertained a large meeting of the Ramabai circle yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Bessie Peck presided; Mrs. Cornelia Shaw was secretary.

Numerous social topics were discussed relating to Anglo-Indian domestic life and its bearings upon women and girl-children, the discussion being led by clippings from current oriental literature.

Mrs. E. M. Pike brought to the notice of the meeting the efforts of Hindoo humanitarians for the suppression of the opium traffic, in which they are asking for the aid of English and American public influence.

Mrs. Shaw read of the effects of caste upon all conditions of Hindoo life and the suffering entailed thereby upon helpless women and girl-children; Mrs. Louise Eck read of the women of India, and the results of child-marriage, according to the testimony of 59 women physicians; also of the superstitious rite of hook-swinging to propiate the Goddess of Evil Destiny.

Mrs. A. E. Ensign read an article upon the domestic life of the Egyptians during the reign of the Ptolmies, showing that women in that age were respected and kindly treated.

The January meeting will be held with Mrs. Louise Eck, 1212 Madison street.

This evening the Theosophical club meets with Mr. and Mrs. John M. Wheeler, 222 Seventeenth street.

The paper before the Colloquial club to-morrow afternoon promises to be of more than usual interest. The essayist is Mrs. A. E. Lang, and her topic is indicated by the very significant title, "Wanted—A Business Woman." The meeting is in the Law Kindergarten rooms, Central Congregational church, entrance on Adams street. It opens promptly at 4 o'clock, and closes no less promptly at 5:30. All women invited.

RELICS OF THE MOUND BUILDERS.

Hundreds of People View the Copper Weapons Unearthed.

Chillicothe, O., Dec. 17.—Hundreds of people have come to see the mound builder relics, uncovered by Warren K. Moorhead Monday.

Of the five skeletons lying side by side two were covered with a sheet of copper six by eight feet.

A large thick copper ax weighed 41 pounds and in point of size and value exceeds any single specimen ever found in the United States. There are traces of gold. The cuting edge is seven inches broad and very sharp. How it could have been fastened in a handle and used is a mystery. All the smaller copper axes are such as have been found before. Thirty copper plates with mound builder's cloth on them over-lapped the axes.

A great copper eagle, 20 inches in diameter, with wings outspread, beak open, tail and wing feathers neatly stamped upon the copper surface covered the knees of one of the skeletons.

This is one of the most artistic designs ever found in copper. Remains of a copper stool about a foot in length and several inches in height lay near the head of one of the skeletons. The stool was made out of wood and had been covered with sheet-copper. Flint implements, bear tusks, seashells and other trinkets were also found.

CARED FOR ALL BUT ONE.

Joel R. Carter's Will Prove to Be a Sensational Document.

Akron, O., Dec. 17.—A copy of the will of Joel R. Carter, formerly of this city, who lately died at Sacramento, Cal., leaving three widows and 11 children behind, is in this city. The will was signed in Akron 15 years ago last Sunday.

In the document Carter avers that wife No. 1, whom he left in England when he came to this country, deserted him, inasmuch as she refused to join him in this city, where he made a good start toward his large fortune.

The will also asks that wife No. 1 shall not be given any of the property, but makes liberal provision for his sons, Joel and William, by his first wife, Jemima.

After the payment of all debts one-half of his estate is to go to the two sons.

By his second wife, Sarah Jane, he had two children, Oliver and Minnie. To these he leaves the remaining half of his fortune and asks that wife No. 2 be made their guardian.

In his will Carter acknowledges that he lived for a long time with Sarah Jane Carter as his wife, though not in strict conformity to the law. The will has not yet been probated, but will be shortly at Sacramento.

COVERED HIM WITH INK.

A Drunken Doctor Who Got Himself Into Trouble.

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 17.—Dr. Benton Strange, a prominent physician of Valdosta, has for some time aroused the indignation of the citizens by his conduct while on drunken sprees.

It was decided to take some action in the matter, and on Tuesday a mob gathered at his residence, called him out and took him away some distance, where they flogged him and covered him with a coating of ink. Dr. Strange was not seriously injured, but decided that his usefulness in the town had been brought to a close and left the place.

HE WANTS A DIVORCE.

Upper Sandusky, O., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Abbey Swintaman, of Monon, left her husband yesterday morning ostensibly to buy Christmas presents in this place. Mr. Swintaman suspected all was not right and a friend of his followed her. At Harpster a young man by the name of Imhost was met and the two came here. Mr. Swintaman also came up in the afternoon, and he met the erring couple face to face at a livery stable after they had returned a rig. He wished his wife much happiness with her new lover, and told her he wanted nothing more to do with her. Mr. Swintaman will apply for a divorce.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

STRANGER THAN THE ARABIAN NIGHTS.

A few years ago a gentleman, passing through the collection of woods in the old arsenal building, said: "I had a queer experience once, and these hard woods remind me of it. I was prospecting in Arizona with a party of friends, and we had rough luck. We had a young Irishman along as cook that I had picked up in Omaha, who was worth more than any ten men I ever saw in keeping up the spirits of the crowd. The lower the provisions the more jovial he was, and I'm hanged if he didn't seem to have the blues one day when we shot a bear and were on the edge of starvation. One day when he had been out picking up wood for a fire, he said: 'Beggin' yer pardon, Master Tom, but, 'av it's all the same, I'd like to take the back track.'

"'What's the trouble?' I asked.

"'It moight be that I be afraid of gettin' so fat I couldn't walk back, but divil a bit o' that,' said he, solemnly. 'But did ye ever hear o' the sthory av Ara-bayan Noight? Sorrer the toimes I've heard Father Clinchy tell it in the ould counthry. It's all about a counthry where the men, women and childer turned to stone. I always took it to be a joke, the results of too much larnin', but divil a bit when we've struck the self-same place. Ye laugh, is it? Cast yer eye on that,' and he held out a perfect limb of a tree of hard, solid rock, while in the other hand he had a large petrified oyster.

"'Why, that's petrified wood,' I exclaimed.

"'Yes,' said Pat, 'an' we'll all be in the same fix if we kape on. I'm for the back trail.'

"It was a long time before we could make him understand the situation. But it was a curious sight. We had camped on the edge of a forest that had actually turned to stone. All about were the great stumps that at first we had taken for stones, but found, on closer examination, to be trees turned into stone. Some were flat on the ground, others broke into hundreds of pieces, while all around were bones and shells all turned to stone also. How long they had been there no one knows. In fact there is little data upon which to form any kind of an estimate.—Great Divide.

HE PAID HIS WAY.

When the conductor of the western express over the Boston & Albany road collected his tickets last Friday afternoon he had among his passengers Gov. Russell of Massachusetts, says the Boston Globe. His excellency occupied a small compartment in one of the sleepers, whither he had retired to study up the speech he was to deliver in the evening at Holyoke.

"How do you do, Gov. Russell?" said the ticket collector.

"I am delighted to see you," responded the Cambridge man, at the same time extending his hand.

"You hold a pass, of course, Governor?"

The commander-in-chief of the military forces of the commonwealth began fumbling about his pockets and soon produced a long slip of pasteboard that was very yellow on one side and very green on the other.

"This is not a pass, its a regular ticket," said the surprised conductor.

"Why, I know that; you look astonished."

"Well, I should say I ought to look astonished, for this is the first time during my long connection with railroading in this state that I ever took a paid ticket from one of our governors."

This confusion amused the governor greatly, who went on to say: "It has been one of my unvarying rules never to travel at any company's expense except when on official duty."

The conductor punched a three-cornered hole in the ticket and was heard to say: "I have carried governor-worth all the way from $100,000 to $10,000,000, but this is the first time I ever knew of the head of the state paying his traveling expenses."

A SON WAS BORN.

London, Dec. 17.—The Princess Frederick Leopold has been safely delivered of a son.

The rosebud opening to the morn,
While yet the dew hangs on the thorn,
Exhales less sweetness than is wont
To breathe from lips that SOZODONT
Has touched with a soft crimson glow

BRITISH BEER FROM AUSTRALIA

Misfortunes are falling thick upon the beer trade. In addition to home difficulties and "lager" rivals, it has now to count upon colonial competition. The first consignment of Australian beer ever exported to this country by our antipodean offspring has arrived in the Thames by a Peninsular and Oriental steamer. Should it prove palatable to English consumers, the trade, it is said, will be rapidly pushed ahead.—London Telegraph.

Of the price for which said property shall be sold, there shall be paid in cash, at the time of the sale, a sum equal to the amount of cash deposit hereinbefore required, and also, at the same time, and from time to time thereafter, such further portions of said purchase price as the court may direct; and the court reserves the right to reject any bid, and to take and to sell said premises and property, upon failure of any purchaser for twenty days to comply with any order of the court requiring payment. The balance of the purchase price not required to be paid in cash may either be paid in cash, or the purchaser may satisfy and make good said balance of his bid, in whole or in part, by paying over the outstanding First Mortgage Bonds secured by said mortgage and overdue coupons, and the outstanding Income Bonds, or either, at such price or value as shall be equivalent to the amount that the holders thereof would be entitled to receive thereon, in case the entire purchase price were paid in cash. If any bid shall be accepted by the court, and the person making the same shall fail to comply with all the conditions of sale and all orders of the court with respect thereto, the sum deposited by the bidder shall be forfeited, and shall be applied as the court may direct.

THE LITTLE BROWN LEAF.

Said the little brown leaf as it hung in the air
"To the little brown leaf below,
"What a summer we've had
To rejoice and be glad,
But to-day there's a feeling of snow.

"I am lonely up here on the tree so high,
With the leaves all off the bough,
So I'll flutter down
To my comrades brown,
Who are resting so softly now."

Said the little brown leaf, "When work is done,
And it's time to go to sleep,
One bids good-by to the frolic and fun,
And shuts his eyes on the merry sun,
And O, but the rest is deep!

"For God is up in heaven above,
And God in the world below—
In the summer light,
In the wintry night,
In the tempest and the snow."

With a sigh as brief as the fall of a leaf,
The little brown leaf dropped through
The amber gold
Of the breeze-swept wold,
And the sky—it was blithe and blue.
—Mrs. M. E. Sangster.

Sir Edwin Arnold has been criticised rather sharply by the Rev. William Elliot Griffis of Boston, a Congregationalist, for saying in his recent book on Japan that the Japanese had never been separated by creeds and religious wars. The Japanese name for all guns is Tanegashima, from the island of Tanega, where firearms were first introduced into Japan by forigners. They used fire locks down to about 1868 with a fuse, which was wound about the arm. This was a string of crushed bamboo fibers or of the Cryptomaria Japonica, a member of the express family. The former was considered the better, but the latter was more commonly used, as it burns slower, and so keeps fire longer.

London, Dec. 17.—The eighteen socialists who were arrested recently at Chelsea for creating disturbance at that place have been sentenced to pay fines of from $10 to $15. In addition, several of them were sentenced to a month's imprisonment.

In charging the grand jury at the Clerkenwell sessions recently, Sir Peter Edlin stated that they had to try a number of case in which persons were charged with taking part in socialist disturbances at Chelsea.

People had assembled there, he said, on Sunday evenings, and riots had ensued. He wished to impress upon them that people had no right to hold a meeting in a public thoroughfare. The right did not exist.

While careful that they should not return a true bill against any innocent person, they must remember that any persons assembling at these gatherings rendered themselves amenable to the law and were liable to be charged with riotous behavior.

The case was tried at Clerkenwell sessions, before Sir Peter Edlin, Q. C. Mr. Besley appeared for the prosecution and Messrs. W. M. Thompson, Lambert Bond, A. J. Wallack and D. K. Kyd appeared for the defense.

The case of Martin Hogan, one of the men sentenced, is a fair sample of those tried.

Mr. Besley, in pressing the charge against Hogan, said that politics or religion had nothing to do with the case.

Continuing, Mr. Besley said that places of public resort were intended for no other purpose than for passing and repassing. Places were expressly set apart for holding public meetings, in the parks and elsewhere.

On the 25th of October the prisoner, with a number of other persons assembled in the Kings Road, Chelsea. That was a most undesirable spot, as there were a number of roads intersecting one another at that place.

A number of inhabitants of the neighborhood got up a memorial to show that they were annoyed by the assembly of people at the spot. Hogan commenced speaking, saying it was intended to hold a peaceable meeting at the place.

He carried a red flag in his hand, and was speedily surrounded by a number of other people. He was requested to go away but refused to do so and as he persisted in this refusal he was taken into custody.

Chief Inspector Wendon said that on October 25 he was on duty in the Kings Road, Chelsea, when he saw groups of people assembling near the refuge; this was about 7:30 p. m. A man then walked out into the roadway carrying a red flag in his hand and the crowd immediately closed around the south side of the refuge. The prisoner, the inspector continued, followed the man who was carrying the red flag and soon after the prisoner began to address the crowd, saying: "Fellow citizens: We have come here to hold a peaceable meeting." The inspector added that he then went up to the prisoner and said: "You cannot be allowed to hold a meeting and cause an obstruction here."

At this there was a great deal of hooting, hissing and yelling.

The prisoner, the inspector continued, insisted upon his right to hold a meeting and, consequently, was placed under arrest with a number of other people who acted in sympathy with him and who encouraged him to cause an obstruction by holding a meeting against the law.

Sir Peter Edlin, in substance, said that he thought the evidence would not support the charge of riotous assembly and creating a riot; but, he thought the count of obstruction might be sustained. Therefore his direction to the jury was that on the first two counts of the indictment they should return a verdict of not guilty. The jury so found.

This case is a fair sample of the others and is only cited in order to show the nature of the crime of which these socialists have been found guilty.

WILL PROVE A FIZZLE.

The Great Railroad Federation Will Not Pan Out.

Switchmen and Engineers Who Were Loyal to Their Unions Cannot Double Up With the Trainmen.

St. Louis, Dec. 17.—Grand Master Sweeney of the Switchmen's Mutual Benefit association is here from Chicago, and in an interview this morning regarding the proposed federation, said:

"This federation scheme will prove a fizzle. The projectors will never secure the co-operation of the switchmen, nor of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen. The switchmen, in the first place, are sufficiently powerful to need no federation.

"In the second place we will never consolidate with a set of blacklegs such as compose the Brotherhood of Trainmen. We will never forget the part they took in the strike on the Northwestern last May. Even after that the brotherhood added insult to injury by the action taken by its grand officers and governing council in indorsing the blackleg members in taking our places, so there is no possibility of the switchmen allying with them.

"As for the firemen and engineers, they will refuse to enter the federation because they are in close sympathy with us, and besides by joining with the trainmen, would sanction the action taken by the scabs last May."

WILL BE NO TROUBLE.

St. Louis, Dec. 17.—The general grievance committee of the Switchmen's Mutual Benefit association with Grand Master Sweeney, have waited upon General Manager S. H. H. Clark, of the Missouri Pacific, and renewed their agreement on a satisfactory basis. P. J. Lally was elected chairman and Secretary Hurst was re-elected for the ensuing year as officers of the grievance committee.

PITTSBURG TO BE AIDED,

Action Taken by the Federation of Labor.

Two Reports and a Spicy Discussion.

Routine Business of General Interest to Laboring Men Throughout the Entire Country.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 17.—At the Federation of Labor session yesterday the president announced special committees on high dues, unfair immigration, Knights of Labor proposition, eight hour question, and woman's federation.

Reports of committees being in order, Senator J. G. McNeil of the committee on resolutions, read the majority report on the motion to appropriate $3,000 to help the Pittsburg Typographical Union fight the injunction or conspiracy cases in the courts. It was as follows:

"Whereas, A court of Pennsylvania has in the judgment of this convention exceeded its authority and violated a principle of injustice in enjoining union printers engaged in a contest to maintain and defend their interest as wage workers, who have committed no act involving a breach of the peace or violation of law; and.

Whereas, In the judgment of this convention the court in this case exceeded its power and jurisdiction, which, if allowed to stand unchallenged, will be a constant menace to the advancement and progress of the wage workers as a class and the people as a whole; therefore, be it,

"Resolved, That the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled, do hereby pronounce the edict of said court to be an unjustifiable and illegal interference with the liberties guaranteed in the bill of rights.

"Resolved, That we hereby direct the executive council of the American Federation of Labor to proceed to challenge the order of the court by carrying the case to the highest tribunal in the land, and the executive council are hereby empowered and directed to expend a sum not exceeding $3,000 in the prosecution of the case referred to, in order that justice may be done to the wage workers, and the right of the people upheld.

"Resolved, That in the event the case is not carried up to the highest courts, the executive council may use such part or the whole of the above named sum to test the constitutionality of the conspiracy laws, or of any proceedings in equity against affiliated unions or union men in any state in the Union.

"Resolved, That we call upon affiliated unions to co-operate with the executive council of the American Federation in their work."

EDWARD L. DAILY.
JERRY DOGHERTY.
GEO. E. McNEIL.

Representative Shields of the Typographical Union, moved its adoption, but after some discussion, Committeeman Valesh was permitted to read the minority report as follows:

"Whereas, Conspiracy laws appear on the statutes of many states, and of late years it appears evident that the courts persistently construe them in such a manner as to annul the most law-abiding efforts of labor organizations for a betterment of conditions, and

"Whereas, Enjoinment proceedings and similar tactics are now employed to oppose strikes rather than the former methods of physical force to suppress laborers; and

"Whereas, We see in this perversion of the courts a most dangerous menace to the very existence of labor organizations, because it is evident that there is a concerted plan to make the enforcement of conspiracy laws an excuse for draining our treasuries and terrorizing our members so that the efficiency of the organizations will be destroyed; be it

"Resolved, That the American Federation of Labor hereby enters a solemn and emphatic protest against such unwarranted proceedings, and the executive board are empowered to take steps for the repeal of such laws, and that it exercise its discretion in aiding unions in fighting enjoinment proceedings where the courts have encroached upon the rights of labor organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor."

FRANK VALESH.

After a long discussion, in which Vice President McGuire led the opposition to the majority, that report was overwhelmingly adopted.

At the afternoon session a request for aid from the striking Indiana miners was referred to a committee.

MADE A BAD RECORD.

One of Harrison's Appointments in the West.

He Stands Convicted and Condemned by the Courts, But the Administration Winks at His Actions.

Washington, Dec. 17.—President Harrison and his esteemed attorney-general and former partner, Mr. Miller, are at present very much exercised over reports from Utah.

It seems that, contrary to the local sentiment of Utah, a person of the name of Elias H. Parsons was appointed United States marshal for the Territory of Utah early in the Harrison administration.

Parsons is a personal friend of the attorney-general, and that was his chief backing. He was, however, indorsed for the place by the Rev. Mr. McNiece, a Presbyterian minister at Salt Lake City, who formerly resided at Fort Wayne, Ind. McNiece is a particular friend of President Harrison, and also of Attorney-General Miller, and his indorsement of Parsons, together with the attorney-general's friendship, was sufficient to procure that gentleman his appointment.

It is charged that Parsons has been guilty of a good deal of crooked work of one kind and another in Utah. The grand jury after hearing a great deal of evidence regarding Parsons, has found some indictments against him.

The jury found that, as manager of the penitentiary, he had been hiring out the labor of the convicts at a price less than the regular rate of wages, to his profit and to the profit of his subordinates. He was also indicted for being interested in a gaming house, and about the time that the grand jury were finding these indictments the United States marshal was taking the testimony of female inmates of the penitentiary, who swore that they had been criminally assaulted by Marshal Parsons while they were in his charge.

Extraordinary efforts were made to hush up the charges against Parsons, but they have leaked out.

Harrison and Miller, it is understood, still stand by Parsons and declare that he is an extremely good man, pious and virtuous, but the facts seem to be against them. According to the reports received here Mr. Parsons converted the female portion of the penitentiary into a harem, and his conduct during the past year has been such on the whole as to shock the most polygamous-minded of the Mormons.

But the Rev. Mr. McNiece, his old pastor at Fort Wayne, still supports him, and Bro. Harrison and Bro. Miller still have faith in him, and although the evidence that he has been immoral is overwhelming, it is not at all certain that the president and attorney will decide to deprive him of his office.

Parsons is a very influential republican and did good service for Harrison and Miller in Indiana in the past, and it seems to be understood that he is able and willing to send two delegates from Utah to the next republican convention clamoring for Harrison's renomination.

THE POLICE BOARD.

Various Matters of Routine Attended to.

Protection for Ironville—Van Buskirk Makes Confession and Gets Off Lightly—Some More Charges.

Besides the charges preferred against the chief there was but little important business before the police board.

A petition was presented from the manufacturers and citizens in the vicinity of the ship yards asking that a patrol box be placed at the corner of Pine avenue and Front street.

Chief O'Dwyer stated that there was a box at the ship yards.

Mr. Stager stated that he thought there ought to be a patrolman in this vicinity day and night, as there is a large amount of valuable property there wholly without police protection.

The force has no men to spare, and the best means of providing an officer for that district was discussed at some length. Finally, on motion of Mr. Stager, it was decided to appoint two more supernumeraries and apprise the council of that fact and ask them to approve the action. In accordance with this Frank B. Scott and William Powers were appointed.

On motion of Mr. Waring it was decided to make the salaries of District Physicians Kitchen and Orwig $29.10 per month the same as other district physicians. The ones named are now receiving $25.

Charges were presented from Rudolph Behrendt against Patrolman Charles Herman, charging that on the 10th of December, 1890, Herman pointed a revolver at Behrendt and without cause threatened to shoot him, the complainant at the time being on his own premises. Also charging that in September last during fair week Herman went to Behrendt's house on Dorr street, while in an intoxicated condition and there insulted and assaulted the complainant's sister.

The charges were referred.

Patrolman George J. Van Buskirk was tried on charges of neglect of duty on the 28th of November preferred at the last meeting by the chief.

Van Buskirk plead guilty and made a clean breast of it, saying that he performed his night's duty faithfully, until 10 minutes past 4 in the morning, which was within 10 minutes of the time to start in for the station. He then went into a barn to get his dinner pail and sitting down to rest fell asleep for some time and was thus late for roll call. When he awoke he at once returned to the station and confessed to Sargeant Scott the reason for being late.

The commissioners were very much pleased with Van Buskirk's open confession, and as he is an officer with a splendid record he was let off with a fine of $10.

OFFICER HERMAN

Says the Charges Made Against Him Are the Result of Spite Work.

Patrolman Charles Herman, against whom charges of intoxication and unbecoming conduct were last night preferred before the police board by Rudolph Behrendt, makes a denial of them all to a Bee. "I was never in his place, except on the 3d of July of last year, and then I was not intoxicated, and I never spoke to his sister. Neither did I threaten to shoot Behrendt, but I did threaten to shoot his dog which was running at large and bit me, besides several other people. I found that he paid no license tax for this dog, and last week I arrested him on a charge of allowing a dog to run at large, and he was convicted in court. This is the reason of the spite against me, and he is now trying to get even."

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 17.—Henry Marshall Kingman, 18 months ago vice-president and cashier of the First National bank of Chicago, committed suicide yesterday by hanging himself with a trunk strap from a clothes hook in the bath room of Frank Chapin's residence in this city.

If sick headache is misery, what are Carter's Little Liver Pills if they will positively cure it? People who have used them speak frankly of their worth. They are small and easy to take.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Attractions at the Theaters for Christmas Week.

Last Production of "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows"—"The Old, Old Story"—Van Cortland Coming.

Mr. Wilkinson's Widows was presented at Wheeler's opera house again last evening to an audience larger than that of the night before, but still not what this splendid comedy deserved.

The Old, Old Story.

There is a heavy advance sale for the production of the New York society success, The Old, Old Story, or Beekman & Son, Bankers, at the Wheeler opera house to-morrow and Saturday evenings, and those desiring good locations should secure them at once. The Old, Old Story is one of those charming society comedy dramas so popular in Toledo, and was produced at the Lyceum theater in New York last season.

As presented by West and Sabel's admirable New York company it has met with phenomenal success, and the critics of Cincinnati, Columbus, etc., where it was recently presented, are most enthusiastic in their praise of it.

The Henrietta.

The play is a satire written by Bronson Howard, the successful author, and also author of the Shenandoah that has played to such large business throughout the country. Bronson Howard upon modern American life, or rather some features of it—features after all in imitation of or borrowed from our English cousins, the most pronounced of which are the money and stock speculators and the dude. The dude is not an American production. In characterizations, of course, there are exaggerations in order to make the scenes more vivid and impressive.

In The Henrietta is the combination of a ballet dancer, a mining company and a racing colt. Of course these get mixed up in a farcical way; but there are more than these elements to the comedy, which to be appreciated must be seen, as the one-eyed man of destiny would say. Mr. Woodward is a Wall street magnate, with a Vanderbilt face, while Stuart Robson, who loves pictures of actresses and buys them in wholesale quantities from photographers and gives a premium for autograph signatures, possesses the love of a delicious young girl, and that certainly should be sufficient happiness.

The comedy will be excellently produced and most effectively performed, and wherever The Henrietta has been produced the capacity has been inadequate to accommodate the crowds.

Lucretia Borgia.

The Christmas attraction at the Wheeler opera house will be the tragic actress Ida Van Cortland in Victor Hugo's historic romance, Lucretia Borgia. The engagement is a special one, and two performances will be given on Christmas day, next Friday, at which reduced prices will prevail. Miss Van Cortland has been seen in Toledo before, and has always been well received. Her supporting company this season consists of Albert Travernier, W. J. Butler, Robert Wayne, W. A. Hammett, H. Forbes Dawson, George Louden, Robert Spear, Carrie Wayne, Emma Lathrop, Mary Hammett and Nora Buckley.

Dowling and Hasson.

The Red Spider and Nobody's Claim, two favorites in the line of sensational melodrama, will be presented at the People's theater next week by J. J. Dowling and Sadie Hasson, with a strong supporting company. The pieces will be presented as follows: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and Tuesday matinee, The Red Spider; Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings and Thursday, Friday and Saturday matinee, Nobody's Claim.

Hands Across the Sea.

Toledo theater goers are recognizing the real worth of this splendid drama, and the business at the People's this week is very large. Mr. George Parsons and Miss Carrie Osterman, two Toledo young people in the cast, are receiving nightly ovations.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THE THREE AGES.

(From the French of Marie Constantin.)

My dears, when I was young like you—
O, days that long ago took wing!—
I had your wit, your sweetness, too,
And loved, like you, the Spring.
Fondly do I remember still
How dear to me were fields and flowers;
How dear the hearts in lighter hours
Made captive in the gay quadrille:
A merry child like you, my dears,
And such was I at fifteen years.

Later, my heart, less wild and gay,
To one devout espousal moved;
And wedded joys, how sweet are they,
To love and to be loved!
But sometimes pensive and apart,
I prayed in secret sighs to heaven,
That some dear angel might be given
To stir in me a mother's heart:
Wife and fond mother, too, my dears,
And such was I at thirty years.

O later! Onward still and on
Time flies, like an advancing wave,
And Summer, Autumn, both are gone,
With all the joys they gave!
Yet, while we droop with age and pain,
The heart that to our babes we give
In their sweet innocence may live,
And with their babes be young again;
And such am I at length, my dears,
With my full span of eighty years.

—George Cotterell, in the Argosy.

It's an insult to your intelligence, but some unscrupulous dealers try it. For instance: you're suffering from some Skin, Scalp or Scrofulous affection, or are feeling "run-down" or "used-up." There's a torpid liver, impure blood, and all that may come from it.

You've decided, wisely, that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the medicine to help you. You know that it's guaranteed to do so, as no other blood purifier is.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, you get your money back.

Can you ask more?

But what is best for you to take isn't always best for the dealer to sell. He offers something that's "just as good." Is it likely? If the makers of a medicine can't trust it, can you?

If they can trust it, then why not guarantee it, as the makers of the "Discovery" do?

The genuine sold only through authorized agents, at the uniform price of $1.00.

Beware of spurious imitations or dilutions, offered at less prices.

EVERY FAMILY

Should be provided with Ayer's Pills. No other aperient is in such general demand or so highly recommended by the profession. Mild but thorough in operation, these pills are the best of all remedies for constipation, biliousness, heartburn, indigestion, flatulency, loss of appetite, liver complaint, and sick headache. They break up colds, fevers, and malaria, relieve rheumatism and neuralgia, and are indispensable to travelers, either by land or sea. Sugar-coated and compounded of the purest vegetable cathartics, they may be taken with impunity by old and young. Physicians recommend these pills in preference to any other. H. W. Hersh, Judsonia, Ark., says: "In 1853, by the advice of a friend, I began the use of Ayer's Pills as a remedy for biliousness, constipation, high fevers, and colds. They served me better than anything I had previously tried, and I have used them in attacks of that sort ever since."

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

Illinois Wheat and Corn Crops.

Wheat—There was a tendency to increase the area of winter wheat quite materially this fall, and considerable ground was prepared for it, but it was so very dry that a large portion of it was not seeded. The drought also militated against the growth of the plant, much of that seeding failing to germinate at all, while that that did start is so weak that it is not in good condition to stand a hard winter. The November rains were beneficial to the growing plant and caused some of the seed, which had lain in the ground for weeks, to sprout, but the stand, as a whole, is uneven and the outlook for a wheat crop in Illinois in 1892 is not encouraging.

The reports of crop correspondents give the condition of winter wheat in the northern division of the state as 80 per cent. of the usual December average and 82 per cent. in the central division, while in the southern division, where the drought was most severe, the condition is 25 points less than a seasonable average.

Corn—Take the state as a whole the area devoted to the corn crop was 5,744,000 acres, at an average yield of 37.5 bushels per acre, which gives a total yield of 215,395,000 bu for the entire crop.

The Liverpool Corn Trade News of December 2—Wheat—America with her apparently inexhaustible surplus is daily lowering the standard of prices, while at the same time freights are falling steadily, a somewhat unusual coincidence. The fear that the 100 steamers usually engaged in the Mediterranean trade will glut the American ports with tonnage has been the cause of a decline in rates of 6d, or 1s per quarter, but when it is considered that approximately 100 steamers will be required week in and week out for the next seven months in the American trade, to carry the 1,000,000 qrs of wheat, maize, rye, oats, etc., that Europe needs weekly, it seems a little surprising that the markets should be so affected.

Germany—Last season Germany imported during the months November to August, inclusive, the following quantity of Russian grain, and it will readily be seen to what an extent she will feel the effect of the late decree during the remainder of the cereal year.

Total for nine months: Wheat, 1,603,000 qrs; rye, 2,844,000 qrs; barley, 1,121,000 qrs; oats, 620,000 qrs; maize, 360,000 qrs. Grand total, 6,548,000 qrs.

As it is perfectly impossible that the deficiency in rye, barley and oats can be made good by any other country it follows as a matter of course that such deficiency will have to be supplemented with other articles, say wheat and maize from America.

Russia.—The Russian authorities published yesterday a revised estimate of the production in the whole of the Empire, including Poland. The total deficiency compared with the previous year is 43,000,000 qrs. (344,000,000 bu.) or if compared with the crop year of 1888 the deficiency amounts to no less than 560,000,000 bu.

Beerbohm's London Corn Trade List of December 1: The Daily News to-day has an interesting article on the Russian famine, which shows, taking the official estimate of the crops and the home requirements, during 1889, 1890 and 1891, and allowing for the exports since August 1, 1889, that there is a deficiency of wheat and rye to be met between now and the 1st of August next of about 46,000,000 qrs., which it is concluded can only be met by imports, principally of wheat, from abroad, the reserve stocks being insufficient to meet this large demand upon them.

The Washburn Bill Against Trading in Futures.—We commented briefly on this bill yesterday. In an interview, Mr. Washburn says its details generally correspond with the Butterworth bill, which was fully fought out, on both sides, in the first session of the last congress and defeated. Mr. Washburn may as well save his labor. Such a bill as he has introduced cannot be passed. Of course no one wants to antagonize the great milling interest of this country. Why should the milling interest attempt to suppress grain trading? This kind of legislation attempts to array one trading interest against the other. It cannot be done. While there may be objectionable features in the present method of trading in futures, they are largely overbalanced by its benefits. In this world nothing can be made perfect. The tares must grow with the wheat.

According to a dispatch to the Washington Post, the Minneapolis millers approve Mr. Washburn's bill, and it is believed they were consulted before it was introduced. Of course they favor it. They don't want wheat dealers fooling around in the vicinities where they buy wheat. They want to make the price to the former, without this competition. There are two sides to the question, and this is what Senator Washburn will learn.

London wheat easier. Quotations on California, wheat 3d@6d lower. French country markets firmer. Liverpool wheat dull, with free offerings; quotations all lower. Corn demand improving.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 730,856 bu., compared with 350,898 bu. on the same day last year.

The Liverpool "Corn Trade News."—Our agent at St. Petersburg cables that the government has raised the embargo upon the exportation of linseed cake.

A subscriber writes that it might be of interest to point out the difference between a measured bushel of the U. S. A. and British imperial bushel. We understand the custom in America is to measure with the Winchester bushel, equal to 0.969 British imperial bushels, and that if the wheat in an imperial were to weigh, say 60 lbs., similar wheat in a Winchester bushel would weigh 58.14 lbs. Roughly speaking the Winchester bushel is 3 per cent. smaller than the imperial.

Wheat closes 1-2@5-8c higher to-day on May at $1.01 3-4. The closing cables were firmer on cash and January wheat, while the far futures were 1-4c lower. There was nothing of importance to the trade in the Chicago gossip, except that the more prominent traders had taken on a little wheat for a scalp. Exports were fair, with some new business noted.

New York closes 1c higher for December at $1.05 1-4. December corn in 2c higher and December oats 1-2c higher.

Chicago is 1-2c higher on May and 2 1-4c higher on December corn. December oats 3-8c higher.

Cash wheat sales at 95@95 1-2c, closing 95 3-4c. Demand light. December same as cash; January about 3-4c over cash with small sales. May sold at opening at $1.00 7-8, then steadily up to $1.01 1-2, back to $1.01 3-8, to $1.01 1-2, closing $1.01 3-4. No. 3 soft at 92 1-2c L. S.; other grades neglected, except smutty, which sold at 83c, and No. 2 rejected at 78c.

Corn easier with more trading. Sales include No. 2 at 45 1-2; No. 2 white at 46c; No. 3 at 44c, and No. 4 at 42 1-2c and 42 1-4c. January sales at 43c. Nothing doing in May.

Oats quiet and shade easier. No. 2 white, 35 1-2c; No. 3 white, 34 1-2c, and No. 2 at 33 1-2c about represent the market.

Rye 3-4c lower at 91 1-4c for cash and to arrive.

Rye—Chicago review of to-day says: Our stock of contract rye is 467,000 bu, of which 250,000 is sold to go out in January by one firm—other firms may have similar contracts. Receipts to-day only 12 cars. Probably 60 to 70 per cent. of visible supply is already sold for export.

Clover quiet and steady for cash at $5 50; January, $5 50 bid, and March sales at $5 60; December at $5 50.

Dressed hogs steady at $4 25.

Bran and feed, $1 75 per ton.

The Cincinnati Price Current of this morning reports some injury to wheat crop from freezing and thawing, but the average condition of the crop is maintained. Corn marketing is retarded, but there is a readiness to sell at present prices.

Rock Island, Chicago Gas, Northern Pacific preferred, St. Paul and Union Pacific were about the only stocks that showed any activity on the market this morning. In the early trading prices were firm and slightly higher but toward the end of the first hour the market weakened and the early advance was more than lost in some cases. Chicago Gas was a conspicuous case. It advanced 1-8c at the opening and declined 1 per cent. by 11 o'clock. There was another rally after 11 o'clock under the lead of Northern Pacific preferred which advanced 1 per cent. to 69 1-2c. The advance, however, brought out renewed offerings and by midday prices in most cases were down to within a fraction of last night's closing. At this writing the market is extremely dull. Sales 109,100 shares.

FOR DEEPER WATER WAYS.

The Detroit Convention in Session To-Day.

President Palmer, of the World's Fair, Made Temporary Chairman—Committees Appointed.

Detroit, Dec. 17.—The waterways convention was called to order in the Light Infantry armory this morning by ex-Congressman Wm. C. Maybury, who said that a deep channel was but a dream 25 years ago, but now is an absolute necessity, and that immediate steps should be taken to begin the work.

Wm. Livingstone, jr., followed by reading Congressman Chipman's letter to the Detroit board of trade suggesting the idea of deepening the channel between Duluth and Buffalo.

The call for the meeting was then read, after which Mayor Pingree welcomed the delegates to the city. Ex-Minister Thos. W. Palmer, of the world's fair, was chosen temporary chairman.

He thought that so far as money making for those present was concerned, it made no difference whether the channel was deepened or not, as they were undoubtedly making as much money now and probably more than they would with deeper water; but it is the people of the entire northwest who are directly interested.

A deeper channel meant cheaper food, cheaper iron and cheaper everything. He thought the convention should also take some action on pushing the Hay Lake improvements to completion, and upon the matter of securing better harbors of refuge, but all these should be entirely subordinate to the matter of deeper waterways.

He declared that no member of congress or the United States senate, would turn a cold shoulder upon the demands of this convention. If the government had the money the requests of the convention would be granted.

A committee on credentials was appointed and they were instructed to report as accredited delegates all persons holding credentials from governors of states or from regularly organized commercial or marine associations. These to have a voice in the convention and all others to be given seats as honorary members. A committee on permanent organization and on resolutions and memorials to congress were appointed, and the convention took a recess.

ONE WAY TO STOP A RUNAWAY.

In Nashville, Tenn., on Friday last, a runaway horse attached to a buggy dashed madly down the street as only thoroughly frightened animals can. As he was about to collide with a street car filled with people, a gentleman who was sprinkling the street from the sidewalk stepped out in front of the infuriated animal, giving him first the spray and then the full stream of his hose right in the face, with the result of checking him so suddenly that he fell upon his haunches and was quickly secured by parties on the sidewalk. The dextrous wielder of the sprinkling hose was a well known member of the old volunteer fire brigade of that city.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

GEOGRAPHICAL KNOWLEDGE IN ENGLAND.

The story goes that some years ago an English tourist on his way to the United States persisted in keeping the steamer's deck in rough weather off Newfoundland because he fancied he might catch a glimpse of Niagara. Similar ignorance of geography must have thrown thick darkness on the faculties of the maker of a recently published English book for boys. In this veracious volume two castaways are represented as voyaging on an iceberg from the Antarctic ocean to off San Francisco in six days. If the author had mentioned that the iceberg was under "forced draught" we could have understood how it was enabled to accomplish such remarkable speed.—Boston Transcript.

THE FIRST TENNESSEE COURT.

If the groves were God's first temples they were likewise, in one instance, the original temple of American justice. Andrew Jackson, when judge of the supreme court, held the first court ever convened in Tennessee under an old sycamore tree at Elizabethtown, and a photograph of that historic tree is one of the prized possession of a Tennessean. It was within a few miles of Elizabethtown also that ex-President Johnson died in an old farmhouse.

NAMESICKNESS.

It Is Said To Be a Common Complaint Among Brides.

"It's an old trick of the trade with the novelists to tell how young women, when in love, never fail at a certain juncture to double lock their room doors, and with many flushes and heart beatings write down their Christian name coupled with the surname of the man whom they have promised or hope to marry," commented a young married woman lately wedded to a fine man of her choice.

"I suppose it is the way with many sentimental girls, though I never did it myself; instead, I underwent a very different emotion, of which I don't think men have any comprehension, but which I find is not peculiar in my case. I mean grief of having to give up one's maiden name.

"All the time I was engaged I never took any thought for the day on which I was to drop my own nice surname and title, for which I had such a deep affection, and be addressed by my family, my friends, and people to whom I was introduced by an entirely different one.

"For the first week after my marriage even I scarcely noticed the change, but one day there suddenly came over me a curious lonesome feeling. It seemed so chilly and formal, so unlike myself to be addressed as 'Mrs.' at every hand, and never hear my own dear original name.

"The more I thought over the matter the more despairing I became. Never, never could I hear the old familiar 'Miss' when anybody spoke to me.

"Thereupon I actually locked myself in my room and wept so long and bitterly from pure namesickness that my husband besought me tearfully through the keyhole to tell him what was wrong.

"He was very much hurt when I first explained the cause of my grief, but when I brought him to a realization of my loss he grew sympathetic, and, do you know, for a long time he called me by my maiden name. That wore off with the honeymoon, however, but even to this day I think sadly of my lost name." —Illustrated American.
